All-American Dairy Show Celebrates 40th Anniversary

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The All-American Dairy Show will celebrate its 40th year by presenting a spectacular dairy show Sunday, Sept. 21 through Thursday, Sept. 25 here at the Farm Show Complex. This show offers the highest premiums and more junior activities than any other national dairy show.

"For 39 years, dairy cattle from Pennsylvania, the United States, and Canada have been on display, but this our 40th year is very special. We will be presenting an exposition that will be truly bigger and better than ever," said Obie Snider, president of the All-American Dairy Show board of directors.

Hushons Reflect On Amazing Year As They Prepare To Return To All-American

AIRVILLE (York Co.) — From a dream of owning "one of those brown cows" as young 4-H members to reigning supreme at the 2003 All-American Dairy Show, for "Brothers Three" Brown Swiss — Josh, Jacob, and Joseph Hushon — the past year has been one wild ride of accomplishment and amazement.

These three brothers from Airville, York County, have achieved at an average age of 20 what most people twice their age can only dream of.

One year ago, in the Large Arena at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex, the Hushon brothers took the All-American by storm, winning the first-ever Youth Supreme Champion Award with their then junior 2-year-old Brown Swiss, Brothers Three Wisper OCS, reaching another benchmark in a successful career of these three showmen.

In addition to the Harrisburg win, the Hushon brothers broke the National Brown Swiss Sale record this summer with the sale of their Brown Swiss, Top Acres Coll Party, at the sale price of $86,000 during the Top Acres Farm Dispersal in June 2003.

As their mother, Patti, noted,

Slaughter sheep sold mostly 4.00 lower.

Selection 1 Billies were not hit quite as hard, with prices 2.00-10.00 lower. Middle and heavy weight Wethers sold 6.00-16.00 lower, with the lighter weight Wethers trading 2.00-4.00 lower. The Wether supply did include over 60 head of fancy fair goats, with only a few of the fancier groups bringing a premium, as the bulk sold right with the rest of them. The supply was nearly twice as large as last Monday's run. And any time the supply outweighs the demand, losses are almost always guaranteed as buyers do not have to be nearly as aggressive in filling their orders. Compared to Thursday, slaughter steers sold mostly steady, with instances weaker on Tuesday. The supply was mixed, and included a lot of high Select and low Choice cattle; especially on Tuesday. That's not to say there were not a few of the higher quality cattle, which continue to bring in the mid-90's. The cattle industry seems to be in a wait-and-see mode right now. Records have been shattered, now one can only speculate where the market is heading. The spot September live cattle contract at the Merc closed at 89.25 on Tueaday, with the Board waiting for news a positive or negative Western market before it makes any more adjustments. A very fancy load of reputation-fed Holstein steers sold up to 5.00 higher on Monday. You know the market has some spark left in it when high Choice Holsteins bring form 83.00-88.00. Slaughter heifers sold near steady, with sales 1.00 lower on the over-finished heifers. Fleshier slaughter cows sold mostly 2.00-3.00 lower, with the exception of Premium Whites which traded as much as 5.00 lower. Lean cows sold mostly 1.00-2.00 lower. Compared to last Thursday, the bulk of the slaughter steer run sold mostly steady. The quality of the run was a little lower than last week, with a lot of the cattle carrying some fill. Therefore, prices may be steady to firm in the meat. Also, when the ring man's starting cattle at 90 bucks, and they sell for 95.00 or 96.00, producers aren't concerned with fill or quality; and with a run of 700 head, buyers had enough to pick through to fill their specific needs. Hurricane Isabel slammed into the East coast, more specifically North Carolina, on Thursday. So far the natural disaster doesn't seem to have dealt a direct hit to the Eastern meat markets,

Receipts: 559 Last Week: 697 Last Year: 315

Compared to last Monday, barrows and gilts sold mostly 5.00-7.00 higher. Prices have dropped sharply over the past couple of weeks, but have begun to rebound somewhat both locally, and across the U.S. With the price of beef skyrocketing, there should be several competitive proteins (especially pork and chicken) that may start to entice consumers; which in turn could strengthen the price of white meat.

Atlanta, Ga.
September 17, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Trade sentiment was mostly fully steady in the East, steady elsewhere. Food service demand was fair. Retail demand was mixed, but strong in the areas targeted by Hurricane Isabel, with retail outlets fully stocked. Supplies were overall in balance. Processing schedules along the East were reduced for tomorrow and Friday, and may resume operations on Saturday; therefore, attempts were made to move additionally product before plants closed. In the parts structure, wings were tight, particularly heavy sizes, and moving well. Tenders were also tight, but the remaining breast cuts were adequate, and dark meat was available to close. In production areas, live supplies were moderate at mixed, but mostly desirable weights.

Crusader with a Drawing Pen

September 27 is the birthday of Thomas Nast, the father of American political cartooning. Born in Germany in 1840, Nast immigrated to America when he was six years old and got his first job as an illustrator at age 15. Beginning in the mid 1800s, Nast used his politically pointed caricatures to expose corruption and to work for civil rights for immigrants and minorities. It was Nast who gave us the Democratic donkey and the Republican elephant, and our modern conception of Uncle Sam and Santa Claus. Nast not only drew the Santa we all know today, he also conceived and created Santa's North Pole home and workshop.

Hot Potato Salad

6 slices bacon
6 tbsp. sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 cup vinegar
2 cups water
5 medium potatoes, boiled, peeled, and sliced
1/4 cup green onion
salt and pepper, to taste
3 hard-boiled eggs, sliced

Fry the bacon until crisp; drain, reserving 4 tablespoons of drippings. Blend sugar, flour, and mustard into drippings. Stir in vinegar and water, cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour over hot potatoes. Mix in onion, crumbled bacon and seasonings. Top with eggs. MAKES 6 SERVINGS.

PIT POWER

Farmers and composters - Here is a breakdown for compost and manure pits and manure piles! Pit Power is bacteria and bacteria feeders that break down solids in manure pits and septic tanks and breakdown compost faster.

Clean out your pit with ease, use Pit Power! One gallon of Pit Power per 10,000 to 20,000 gal. of pit volume. Should be repeated approx. 2 times a year! If aeration of the pit is possible, it will help the bacteria to grow and work faster to break down solids. Pit Power's purpose is to add life (bacteria) in the manure, which then is returned to the soil where a bacteria is working. The smell of pit manure is not so strong. Pit Power is a non-toxic product - Life to Feed Life!

Price is $58.00 per gallon

  This patented system makes loading fast, easy and ensures the bale is always in constant control
- Bale Lift Position Gauge
  Indicates lift height for spearing different sized bales in the centre
- Varying Speed Rotors
  The top rotor turns 3 times faster, fluffing the hay as the bale unravels
- Hydraulic Bale Platform
  The platform safely keeps the bale tight against the rotors without the use of chains - avoiding mechanical breakdowns

Take the hassle out of feeding large round bales with the Agway Chainless Bale Feeder. Its chainless operation provides safer, more consistent operation, keeping the bale in control. The BF5000 also reduces spoilage caused by bales sitting outside in bulky inefficient stationary units. The Agway Chainless Bale Feeder works as well in the barn as it does in the field, allowing you more freedom to decide when and where to feed your livestock. OPINION

National Farm Safety And Health Week, Sept. 21-27

What week could be more important to our farm families than National Farm Safety and Health Week (NFSH)?

This year's theme, "Securing Your Farming Future Through Safety and Health," carries a strong message about the importance of security on America's farms.

NFSH materials developed by the National Safety Council and available on its Website (www.nsc.org/farmsafe.htm) suggest that through increased awareness and education initiatives (such as those promoted by AgrAbility for Pennsylvanians) aimed at protecting the lives and livelihood of our agricultural producers, the nation's abundance of food and fiber will be secure. This is the 60th annual national observation of Farm Safety and Health Week.

Everyday, AgrAbility Project staff across the country provides information and assistance to their clients-farmers, ranchers, and farmworkers who have sustained disabling injuries or have chronic health conditions-that echo that message.

"AgrAbility staff help clients find ways to modify their operations, equipment, and homes so that they can continue to live and work safely," said Linda Fetzer, project assistant for AgrAbility for Pennsylvanians. "Endorsing and disseminating this year's NFSH message is one way AgrAbility staff is working to achieve a primary AgrAbility goal-helping those who have one disability avoid sustaining another."

Farmers, ranchers, and farmworkers with any type of physical, cognitive, or sensory condition (for example, amputation, traumatic brain injury, and hearing impairment) that limits their ability to do their agricultural work or activities of daily living are eligible for AgrAbility services. To date, more than 250 people have received assistance from Pennsylvania's AgrAbility Project.

To find out more about what AgrAbility for Pennsylvanians can do for you, call toll-free within Pennsylvania at (866) 238-4434 or visit the project's Website at http://AgExtEd.cas.psu.edu/agrab/.

Let's not only celebrate the week, let's play it safe during harvest season, use common sense, follow guidelines and restrictions on equipment, and pray for a good, safe harvest.

To Control Mites On Laying Hens, Pullets

During late summer and early fall, birds and rodents begin to look for more permanent shelters in which to hide. As field harvest begins, natural nesting areas are disturbed, pushing rodents and birds toward poultry housing. Capitol region poultry agent Gregory Martin points out vigilance is the key toward control.

Starlings and English sparrows will carry fowl mites (Ornithonyssus sylviarum) to a poultry house. These insects will congregate at the base of the feather shafts near the end of the vent, looking very much like black dust. No bigger than a grain of black pepper, these insects will migrate from bird to bird either in cage or floor housing. It is not too uncommon to find them in nest boxes and other areas where different birds congregate. As the mite population grows and starts to reproduce, nests will appear as white crusty clumps at the base of the feather shaft. Mites can be found on eggs, and will cause discomfort to operators who work with the birds or eggs.

Mites will complete an entire life cycle in 1-2 weeks, and have both nonfeeding and feeding cycles where they attach themselves for a blood meal on the bird. They can live up to three weeks away from the birds and will migrate from host to host if need be.

In addition to wild birds, mechanical vector transmission is also a problem. This includes the movement of infested birds and eggs, nest materials or other supplies, and of course humans who may spread mites from house to house. Proper IPM procedure suggests that poultry operators should scout by observing a sample of birds periodically to determine mite (and other pest) loads in flocks.

Control of mites includes surface spraying of housing and, if necessary, the birds themselves. Permethrin-based sprays do well to help control the pest as well as carbamyl powders that can be dusted into nest boxes. Infested meat flocks only need to be treated if they will be carried further in time as with breeders, or if infestation is causing a problem, such as anemia in the birds.

Spray birds with sufficient pressure to undercoat the feathers near the vent and to allow longer contact of the material to effectively kill the mites. Repeat the spray in 4-7 days if heavy nests are found on the birds to help control the next hatch. In cage and breeder situations, remove all eggs prior to spraying surfaces or birds.

As infested flocks are sold, clean the premises and surface spray to knock down any residual mites that may have survived the cleaning process. Boots should be worn and dipped to help control transmission of mites from house to house on a multiple flock farm.

As with all insecticides, read completely all literature and labeling instructions that come with the material. Mix strictly to the required concentration and apply as directed.

To Observe Farm Safety Week Sept. 21-27

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared the third complete week in September as National Farm Safety and Health Week.

National Farm Safety and Health Week is an annual observance of the National Safety Council to commemorate the hard work and sacrifices of our nation's farmers and ranchers. During this year's recognition, the NSC will work with its agricultural members and its partner in agricultural safety and health, the National Education Center for Agricultural Safety, to provide fact sheets and other information, education and training on farm safety, health and security issues.

"Farm Safety & Health Week is a time for all of us to thank the nation's farmers and ranchers for their important contributions in providing food for our world," said NSC President Alan McMillan. "It is also a time for farmers and ranchers to focus on important safety and health issues, including the safety of children and young adults that perform farming duties, safe use of tractors and equipment, and safe use of guards and retrofits on farm machinery."

Agriculture had the second-highest rate of deaths because of unintentional injuries of any industry in 2002, with a rate of 21 deaths per 100,000 workers.

WATCH YOUR MOUTH!

Background Scripture:
James 3.
Devotional Reading:
Colossians 1:3-14.

We have seen that the writer of the Letter of James is concerned with the steadfastness of faith and the continuity between what a Christian believes and does. James 3 is a continuation of that concern, but with a very precise focus: the importance of Christians exercising control over what they say.

James does not agree with those who shrug off the consequences of what they say. He would never agree that these are "just words" or "a slip of the tongue." For good or evil, words can have powerful effects upon people and the world.

Those who teach as Christians must realize that their words can be very harmful to others and themselves. "Let not many of you become teachers, my brethren, for you know that we who teach shall be judged with greater strictness" (3:3). Anyone who has had the job of recruiting Sunday school teachers will not likely appreciate this remark by James! But this warning applies only to those who are careless and do not take seriously their role. A teacher teaches, not only with words, but also his or her life.

What Is Left?

Theologian Soren Kierkegaard once wrote about preachers in a vein that applies also to teachers: "Order the parsons to be silent on Sunday. What is there left? The essential things remain: their lives, the daily life with which the parsons preach. Would you, then, get the impression by watching them, that it was Christianity they were preaching?"

Actually, I think we ought not to stop with preachers and teachers, but should ask this question of all of us who profess to be Christians.

People tend to underestimate the power of the human tongue because it is so small. But James pointedly demonstrates that "small" does not necessarily mean impotent. "If we put bits into the mouths of horses that they may obey us, we guide their whole bodies. Look at the ships also; though they are so great and are driven by strong winds, they are guided by a very small rudder wherever the will of the pilot directs. . . . How great a forest is set ablaze by a small fire!" (3:3-5)

The Tongue As A Window

We can use the power of speech for good or evil. "With it we bless the Lord and Father . . ." (3:9). We can use it to lift up our neighbor, or to put him or her down. We can speak wisdom or drivel. We can inspire people to noble deeds or we can tempt them to evil. Just consider for one moment all the misery, heartache, violence, prejudice, and destruction have been caused by Christians who have not learned to control their tongues.

The problem is not with the tongue itself, but the person in whose mouth it resides and whose character is revealed by it. James uses analogies to indicate that the source of the tongue's morality or immorality is what is within us.

"Does a spring pour forth from the same opening fresh water and brackish? Can a fig tree, my brethren, yield olives, or a grapevine figs? No more can salt water yield fresh" (3:11, 12). Often, when public figures are quoted as having said something that causes recriminations, they are likely to excuse themselves, holding that the words didn't mean what they seemed to say. But all too often, our words are a window to what really lies inside us.

Socrates once told a potential pupil that he would have to charge him a double fee. "Why?" the student wanted to know. Replied the philosopher, "Because I must teach you two things. The one how to hold your tongue, and the other how to speak!"

As the tongue goes, so goes the life of the Christian. "Who is wise and understanding among you? By his good life let him show his works in the meekness of wisdom" (3:13).

What are the natural consequences of the true follower of Jesus? "But the wisdom from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, open to reason, full of mercy and good fruits, without uncertainty or insincerity. And the harvest of righteousness is sown in peace by those who make peace" (3:17,18).

Does that sound like anyone you know?

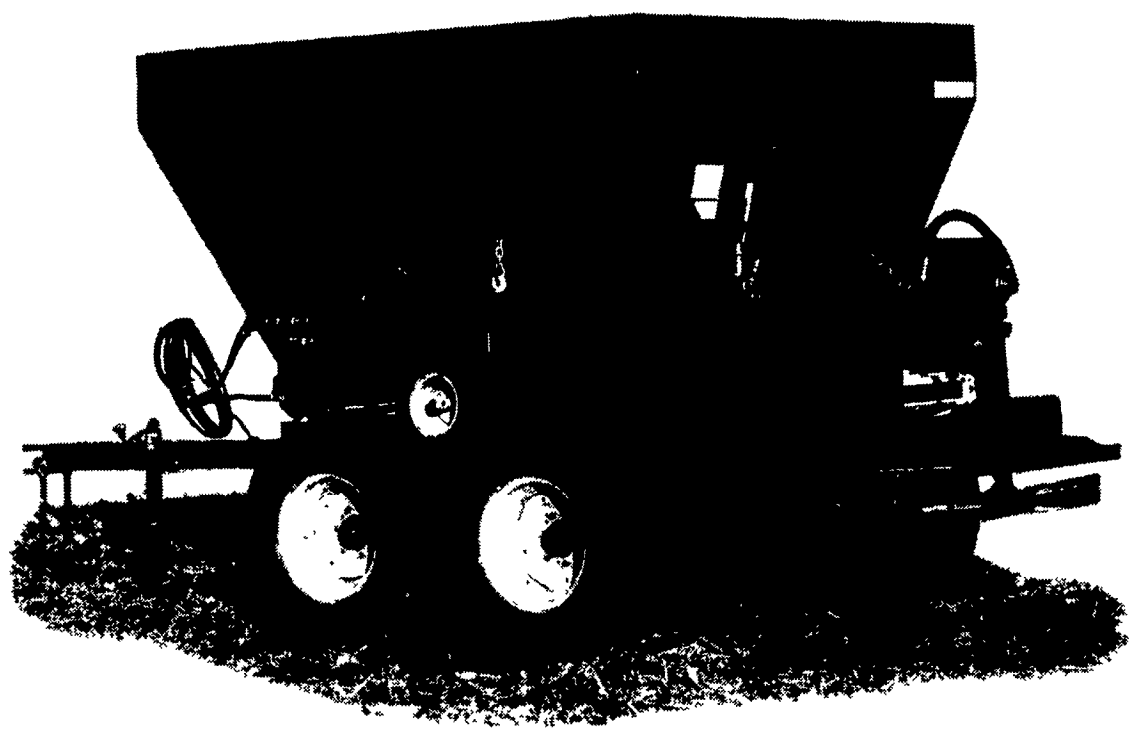
The One Spreader Rugged Enough For Lime, Precise Enough For Fertilizer.



You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

Call or write today for a free brochure and the name of the dealer nearest you.

WHY IS MY PPD NEGATIVE?

August milk check arriving week.

Uniform blend higher.

But PPD is negative.

Dairy producers in federal milk marketing orders will be receiving their August milk checks in a few days. The good news is that the prices are more than a dollar a hundredweight more than last month's milk prices. The bad news is that the producer price differential (PPD) calculation will be negative in most federal orders.

Let's use the Northeast Federal Order 1 as an example. The statistical uniform price for August is $13.72 per CWT (at standard component levels). This is a blend of all four federal order prices. It is up $1.26 per CWT from July. The August PPD at Boston is equal to the uniform price ($13.72) less the Class III price ($13.80). That is equal to -$0.08 per CWT. Zoned to say Lancaster, Pa., that negative number grows to -$0.43 per CWT (assuming a -$0.35 per CWT location adjustment).

So why is the PPD negative? Because the Class III price rose very quickly relative to the other class prices. The Class III price is driven by cheese prices. Cheese prices rose very quickly, driving up the August protein price by $0.5958 per pound from the month before. The other class prices didn't rise as much. Class I has a lot of lags in it, and Class II and IV prices are driven mainly by the price of nonfat dry milk.

The overall farm gate price of milk would have risen a lot faster had butter and nonfat dry milk prices also gone up. But so far that has not happened. Thus producers should simply focus on the bottom line: Class III is up, and so is the farm gate milk price.

For more information on how your milk check is calculated, see the Penn State bulletin, "Understanding Your Milk Check." You can find this online at http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/FreePubs/pdfs/ua341.pdf. Or you can order this publication by calling the Penn State Publications Distribution Center. The telephone number is (814) 865-6713. The fax number is (814) 863-5560. Ask for publication number UA341.

I will be traveling overseas. My next market report will be Oct. 3, 2003

SOY-BASED BIODIESEL.

You grow soybeans. Your soybean checkoff helped develop soy-based biodiesel. Government and industry studies show it's good for your engines, the environment, and U.S. farmers.

Farmers are the second-largest consumers of diesel fuel in the U.S. So when you request biodiesel, fuel suppliers will listen. Ask your fuel supplier to carry B2 - a two-percent blend of pure, ASTM D-6751 quality soy-based biodiesel. It's available throughout the United States, so why not ask for it and use it?

Using B2 on your farm supports the industry's growth, by increasing the number of suppliers for high-quality biodiesel fuel. And, a B2 blend provides increased lubricity for your engines, a boost in cetane, and reduced dependence on foreign oil

Studies show that if every farmer used B2, we could utilize more than 50 million bushels of soybeans per year - the combined 2001 annual soybean harvests of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. Imagine the potential.

ASK FOR IT. PUMP IT. PROFIT.

Solanco Colored Breed Dairy Show Draws 60 Animals

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Ayrshires, Milking Shorthorns, and Brown Swiss turned out in the largest numbers at the Solanco Fair Colored Breed Dairy Show on Wednesday. A total of about 60 animals competed, including several from the Lineback, Jersey, and Guernsey breeds.

Lancaster County Dairy Agent Beth Grove judged the show.

Grove picked Becky Nolan's 3-year-old cow, Dreamnol Willy Rigil Leandra, as grand champion of the Ayrshire competition.

Nolan, 18, graduated last spring from Octorara High School. Leandra was her FFA project cow. Becky is the daughter of Rob and Sharon Nolan, Cochranville.

Hannah Wentworth exhibited the Ayrshire junior champion, a fall calf named Wentworth Farm Garth Velour.

In the Milking Shorthorn show, James Findley of Lititz showed the grand champion, and Carlyn Crowl of Delta, York County, had the junior champion.

Crowl, 12, is a member of the Airville Milk and Money 4-H Club. She is the daughter of Melanie and Gary Crowl. Her grandparents, Joyce and Ellis Crowl, have a dairy farm where they keep more than 50 Milking Shorthorns, according to Carlyn.

In the Brown Swiss show, Lisa Jones showed both the grand and junior champions. Her dry cow, Stone Fence Emory Lilac, was selected as top in the show, winning over a number of milking animals.

Jones, 17, is a senior at Red Lion High School and a member of Airville Milk and Money 4-H Club. She is the daughter of Patty Greek Jones.

Lisa said she is planning to take both winning animals to the All-American Dairy Show in Harrisburg this coming week.

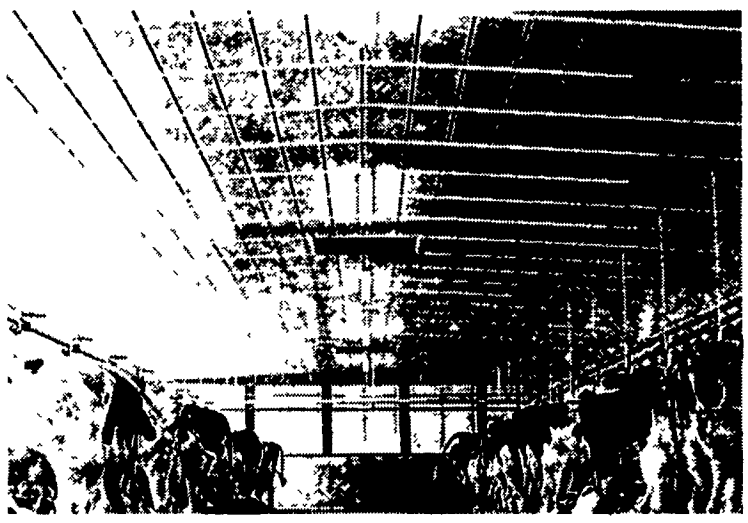
– Ceiling systems designed for your dairy, swine, and poultry facilities, as well – as shops, warehouses, garages, arenas, and more.

Tired of working in a cold, noisy shop?
These ceiling systems are designed to hold any amount of insulation, and with insulation above, produce sound reduction qualities much greater than steel.

Is the banding in your hog or poultry barn deteriorating?
Let us replace them with our heavier polyester bands which do not stretch or become brittle over time.



Are you frustrated with the birds in your implement shed?
Get the problem under control with a triply ceiling, as well as greatly improving the lighting.

Contemplating a drop ceiling?
Demand a triply ceiling above your drop ceiling if there is insulation being installed. This will serve as a vapor barrier along with permanently preventing falling insulation.

Providing the Ag industry with a very durable, attractive, waterproof, noncorrosive, alternative to conventional ceilings at a fraction of the cost.

Hushons Reflect

"They have been called the 'Cinderella' story. We had sold our cows before they were old enough for 4-H. They have accomplished everything without a 'farm' of their parents behind them or a herd to breed from."

With all of the successes that they have achieved in the past 12 years, it is hard to believe everything started as a wish of Josh, 22, 12 years ago when he looked to his parents and said I want to show "one of those brown cows," referring to Brown Swiss he saw showing at a local dairy show.

Since that wish and with support of their parents, Dan and Patti Hushon, the Hushon brothers have grown their herd from three calves purchased for $500 each to maintaining a self supporting herd of about 30 head.

By establishing a successful breeding program with the guidance of their dad and friends they have made through showing Brown Swiss, the Hushons have gone from setting goals of winning a first-place ribbon at the local shows to achieving more than they have ever imagined.

During the course of their show careers, in addition to the achievements of the past year, the Hushon brothers have received 30 Pennsylvania Bell Ringer awards, 12 National Bell Ringer Awards, 12 All American Nominations, four All-American awards, two Reserve All-Americans awards, and one Honorable Mention All-American. In the show ring they have had class winners in the junior and open national shows in Harrisburg; Madison, Wis.; and Louisville, Ky., and national show champion honors.

"I don't think in our wildest dreams could we have imagined the stuff that we have done. We have been fortunate and blessed to be able to do what we have done," said Josh, "It is really unreal when you sit back and think about what these few animals from a small herd have been able to do."

As they return for the 2004 All-American, the Hushons are ready to see where this year will take them and continue on this amazing ride.

The Hushons will be competing in the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show and participate in the Elite Breeds Sale with the sale of a flush from "Wisper."

After having a highly successful year in 2003, Jake, 19, believes that the expectations for him are going to be high.

"I feel that the pressure is always there for a repeat of supreme champion of the junior show," said Jake in regards to showing Wisper this year. "This is my last year of being a junior, so I feel that is added pressure since it is my last chance to win as a junior."

But, win or loose, they are grateful for the experience and to the countless people who have guided them along the way.

"The supreme win was a big milestone and one that was not expected in any way. I was happy just to be a part of the history making event," noted Jake. "Winning was a feeling like no other and it mainly has given me more confidence for this upcoming fall. It also gave me a great sense of pride to be the first ever supreme champion of the junior show."

"Our success should be attributed the people behind us" said Josh in reference to his parents, family, and other breeders, "Without this network of support, it would have been impossible to do what we have done. (In the beginning) we had no idea what we were doing. But, these people took an interest in us."

As for what the future holds, for the Hushon brothers, as they graduate from school in the next few years, the answer is unknown, but their goals remain high.

"We feel like we are on a roller coaster ride and we want to keep going" said Josh. "We feel that we have not reached the pinnacle yet."

From left, Josh, Jake, and Joseph Hushon stand with Top Acres Coll Party after she sold for $86,000 in June 2003, breaking the National Brown Swiss sale record.

Shupp

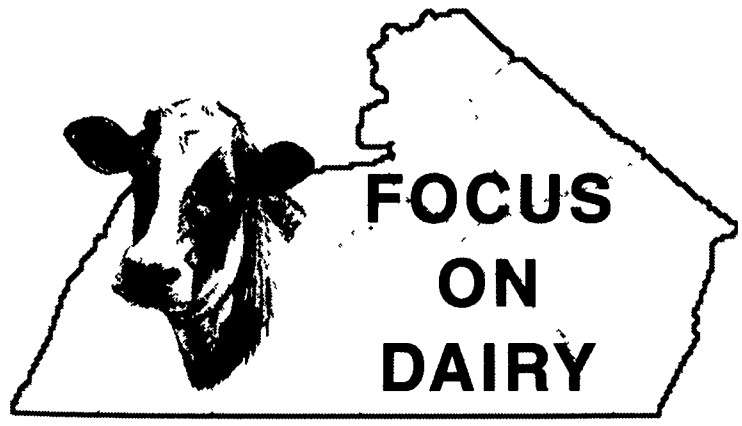
Tech Dairy Science Alumni Association, and Alpha Zeta Fraternity.

In addition to her work with these agricultural organizations, Shupp is also a member of the Harrisburg Alumne Chapter for Kappa Alpha Theta and a Wyoming County 4-H leader.

"Charlene brings a wealth of experience to her position as livestock/dairy reporter," said Andy Andrews, editor of Lancaster Farming. "And her experience as a press aid for Sam Hayes Jr., the former state secretary of agriculture, will bring valued talents to our ability to continue reporting on regional agricultural events, including coverage at the state Capitol."

Reporters for the paper cover a wide variety of topics, including reporting on all species and all aspects of crop production, noted Andrews.

Shupp is in the process of permanently relocating to Lancaster County where she will reside with Matt Espenshade, a dairy farmer, after their marriage in October.



Penn State Cooperative Extension Capitol Region Dairy Team

IS THE NEW VACCINE FOR HAIRY WARTS WORTH TRYING?

Dr. Arlen Mills
Capitol Region Extension Veterinarian, Lebanon

Hairy Warts, officially known as digital dermatitis, have become the most common cause of lameness in dairy cows. It's rare to find a herd that isn't affected by the disease to some degree. The USDA has estimated that more than 80 percent of dairies have cows affected by hairy warts.

Hairy warts are a problem on many farms in the heifer pen. Often, the springing heifers break with hairy warts as they are introduced to the milking environment. This gives them one more stress at an already very stressful time.

Researchers have concluded that the cost to the producer of a case of digital dermatitis (hairy warts) will be about $130. This includes costs for lost milk production, lost reproductive efficiency, and treatment costs. This does not include costs attributed to a higher culling rate even though it has been shown that affected cows tend to have a higher cull rate.

An organism called a spirochete has been isolated from these warts and is presumed to be the infectious part of the problem. Other factors predispose cattle to outbreaks of hairy warts. Environment plays a major role in outbreaks. Keeping feet as dry as possible by regular scraping or by the use of bedding is a great help. Feeding cows properly has an impact on foot health as well. Lack of proper nutrition can lead to poor quality hoof material, which is more subject to infections and breakdown.

Ruminal acidosis also may trigger an outbreak of hairy warts. The acidosis is a potent immune suppressor, leaving the cow subject to many types of infections, including the hairy wart organism.

Recently I participated in a veterinary discussion group on the hairy wart problem. The group consisted of eight veterinarians from across the U.S. During this discussion, data was presented by one of the veterinarians from California State University-Fresno on a small study they had done with a new hairy wart vaccine being distributed by Novartis.

Seventy-two cows were vaccinated and sixty-nine served as unvaccinated controls. By the time that the cows had received the required three doses of the new vaccine, the vaccinated cows had only one new case of hairy warts while the unvaccinated group had six new cases. The veterinarian said that they were impressed enough by the results that they are now planning a larger study.

Several of the other veterinarians in the discussion group have had producers who have tried the new vaccine and all have been pleasantly surprised by the positive results. All veterinarians also emphasized the need to combine the vaccine with good management practices — good diets and efforts to keep feet as dry as possible.

Treatment and prevention of hairy warts up to this point has included sprays, foot bandaging with an antibiotic, and foot baths. All of these methods have their drawbacks. Foot baths are the most commonly used method that I see. They tend to be labor intensive, must be continued indefinitely, and become even more of a problem to manage in cold weather. Some also are concerned that the copper sulfate most commonly used as a foot bath agent may lead to high soil levels of copper over the years. Cornell University has recorded a doubling of soil copper levels over the 10 years that they have been using copper sulfate foot baths.

I see the Novartis vaccine as having some real potential, based on what I have heard about it. At this time the vaccine has conditional approval for use but it appears that full approval and licensing is not far off. As with any vaccine, proper use before exposure to the infection will give the best protection. I have seen it used in bred heifers, timed so that they have received the three doses before being mingled with the cow-herd. This seemed to be very effective in preventing fresh heifer hairy wart lameness. After the initial three doses, the company is recommending a single booster dose at six-month intervals.

If you are one of those 80 percent of dairy producers that has had problems with hairy warts, you may want to give the Novartis vaccine a try.

All-American Dairy Show

board of directors.

In September 1964, the dream of a group of dairy breeders and enthusiasts became a reality when the first national dairy show was held in the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. Originally called the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, the event surpassed their wildest expectations when more than 2,400 dairy cattle of the major breeds from 16 states and Canada were entered. It was reported as "the largest international dairy show in North America, if not in the world." From that start, the show has continued to be a leading event with unparalleled premiums for exhibitors and an extraordinary line up of events, contests, and activities.

The sponsors of the first show were the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, The Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission, and the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association. The purpose of the Pennsylvania dairy show was outlined in the first show catalog by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Secretary, Leland H. Bull, and the first chairman of the show, Cuthbert Nairn Sr.:

"The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is a new venture; it is designed to fill a need that has been apparent for some years. Until now our (Pennsylvania) dairy farmers have had to take their cattle to other states to benefit from comparisons and competition that open national shows provide. Farmers and breeders from other states and Canada have never had the opportunity to bring their best animals into competition with native Pennsylvania stock until now..."

The late Cuthbert Nairn Sr., Ayrshire breeder and internationally recognized judge, deserves much of the credit for initiating the first show. For years prior to its inception, he worked diligently on the project. He eventually through perseverance received the enthusiastic support of William Scranton, governor of Pennsylvania at the time. In 1971, well-known and respected Holstein Breeder, Obie Snider, became president of the board of directors and continues to fill this position.

Many breeders, exhibitors, and dairy enthusiasts have served as members of the board of directors. The first manager of the show was Harold R. McCulloch who served from 1964-1968. Following in the position was Tom Kelly who served from 1969-1973. In 1974, Charles A. Itle was hired as show manager and will be completing his 30th year with the upcoming show.

In 1964 the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture included $50,000 for the first All-American Dairy Show in its budget, with another $40,000 contributed from dairy organizations and individuals, largely through the efforts of Nairn. In 1983, the commonwealth of Pennsylvania appropriated $66,000 toward the show's total budget of $153,000. With $78,000 for premiums for the six dairy breed shows with five designated as "national" for the junior exhibitors, the Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest, several breed auction sales, and spectators numbering in the thousands from this country and others.

The 1983 Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show added further luster to its impressive record. Through the years additional sponsors were solicited from exhibitors, breeders, breed associations, and agribusiness.

In 2000 the name of the show was changed to the All-American Dairy Show in an effort to make all exhibitors understand this was "their" national show and encourage attendance. In late 1999, the idea originated to offer dramatically increased premiums to attract additional interest and reward exhibitors for the quality of cattle brought each year to the All-American Dairy Show.

Many board members, committee persons, and enthusiasts worked diligently toward the possibility of offering the highest premiums to exhibitors at any national show, and in the year 2000, this became a reality. Former Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Samuel B. Hayes Jr. deserves much of the credit for obtaining the funds necessary to make this possible. As a result of the increased premiums, exhibitor numbers have increased each year and the quality of the show cannot be equaled. In 2002, premiums were offered for the first time in all six national junior shows totaling more than $8,400.

One of the most memorable years at the All-American Dairy Show years was the "Great Flood" which occurred in 1975. Show week began with enthusiasm and excitement as with any previous year. The breed shows, contests, and events began on Sunday, and by Monday evening, the nearby Paxton Creek began to rise because of the heavy rainfall from Hurricane Eloise, but fell back. Again on Tuesday night, the water of the Paxton rose and once again fell back, leaving officials and manager Charles Itle to believe they could safely continue. Unfortunately events changed and by Wednesday evening the waters began to rise again and did not recede.

Concern for safety of exhibitors and cattle was always the priority and phone calls were made to the current board members and President Obie Snider. At 3 a.m. the decision was made to cancel the final day of show week and release cattle immediately. The only show not completed was milking animal portion of the Eastern National Holstein Show. An attempt was made to contact owners of all animals and evacuation of the complex began without delay. Many

"DON'T JUMP THE GUN"

With all the planning, money, and labor that's gone into your silage crop, DON'T GET ANXIOUS AND CUT IT TOO EARLY!

You planted corn for silage because of the high nutrient yield per acre, and this is another year when you want to get the highest yield possible.

Immature corn produces a lot of soggy, sour silage that's low in feed value. You may get a lot of weight with this green silage, but you will be limiting the total feed value available from your corn acreage.

Forages stored much above 65% moisture will weep, causing loss of nutrients and damage to the silo, unloader, and feeding equipment. Feeds containing more than 70% moisture provide an excellent environment for harmful bacteria growth and production of undesirable acids, resulting in lowered palatability. As your silage approaches 80% moisture, the total weight in your silo nearly doubles.

There are now hundreds of silos in the Mid-Atlantic area that are over 80' tall, with many 100', 120', and up to 148'. These farmers need to plant corn varieties with at least 3-4 maturity dates in order to have silage ready for the bottom third of their silos when harvest begins. The moisture content of this bottom section of the silo should be about 55%. The middle third should be about 60%, with the top third about 65%-67%.

It can be very easy to cut your feed too early if you are accustomed to begin harvesting according to the calendar. With the wet spring we had in many areas, the corn crop will be spread out considerably concerning maturity and moisture content.

Check your corn crop closely to be sure that it is indeed ready to harvest. As your corn matures, it increases in total dry weight and most of this increase is in the ear, the very heart of your silage.

When you are storing from 1,000 to 4,000 tons of silage (or more) in one tower silo, it is critical that you manage your silage crop to prevent excessive moisture in the silo.

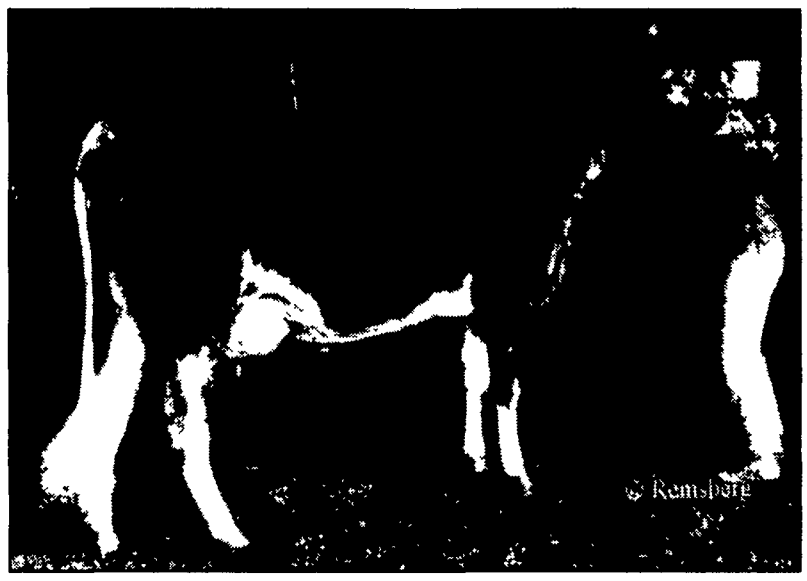
Twin Brook Farm Involved at All-American Dairy Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — For the past 39 consecutive years, the Pennsylvania Turnpike has been a familiar route for the dairy cattle showstring of Twin Brook Farm of Bentleyville. The Marchezak/McMurray Family of Twin-Brook is one of the six families to be honored at the 40th celebration of the All-American Dairy Show.

The Marchezak Family began showing at the newly established national dairy show, called the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, in 1964, its first year. It has made this Harrisburg trip a family tradition ever since.

Beginning with the late John Marchezak, three generations of the family have shown at the All-American Dairy Show. John was very involved in the farming industry with his own milking herd, an on-the-farm butcher shop, and a walking door-to-door milk delivery route. He was very supportive of the possibility of a national dairy show being established in his home state of Pennsylvania.

John and his family had been very active showing Guernseys at various national locations, and welcomed the possibility of a national level show located much closer to home. John so admired many of the gentlemen who were working diligently on the show, such as the late Cuthbert Nairn Sr. and the late Lee Yost, that he decided to support the new show.



Twin Brook B K Posy.

John and his wife, Dorothy, had three children and all three were involved in showing the Twin Brook Guernseys. They all made that first trip to Harrisburg to exhibit at the newly instituted Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show. Quickly all three children, Patty Marchezak McMurray, Jan Marchezak Ivcic, and their brother, John E. Marchezak began participating in many aspects of this national show and they have continued their involvement each year.

The Marchezak Family began exhibiting at the National Guernsey Show at the All-American, and as youth exhibitors in the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show. They have been a class sponsor for the National Guernsey Show for all 40 years. The farm continues to serve as a host farm, offering hospitality and assistance to all fellow exhibitors and striving to make all fellow breeders and friends feel very welcomed. During their college years, Patty and John both judged in the Invitational Youth Dairy Judging Contest as part of the Penn State University dairy cattle team.

In 1966, Twin Brook won grand champion Guernsey in the All-American Dairy Show with Peach Green Paula and this award became quite a highlight in the showring career of John Marchezak. In 1970, Holsteins were exhibited for the first time and became a permanent part of the showstring. In 1980, John Marchezak was chosen as judge for the All-American Dairy Show Milking Shorthorn Show.

Numerous class winners and champions have been bestowed upon this successful showing family, including grand champion of the 1967 Pennsylvania Guernsey Junior Dairy Show. John E. Marchezak received this honor with Twin Brook B K Posey. For the next 10 years after this championship, a direct descendent of Posey was exhibited at one of the shows during All-American Dairy Show Week, and many were first-place class winners. Ironically, all of her daughters were from the same sire and they looked identical. Additionally, more than 40 offspring from Posey have been shown. The most recently exhibited family members were Twin Brook Dante Iris, a first-place spring calf, owned by John E. Marchezak's daughter, Randi, and leased to a Pennsylvania 4-H member, and Twin Brook Loyal Bloom, shown as a 3-year-old.

Furthermore, at least two members of Posey's family will be exhibited during the 2003 All-American Dairy Show Week.

In addition to the families taking a full string to Harrisburg each fall, John E. Marchezak has been an official at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show. He will represent LIRA Animal Health Products of Churubusco, N.Y., to present the $2,000 award to the owner of the youth supreme champion at the 2003 All-American Dairy Show.

Patty Marchezak McMurray has only missed three of the past 39 shows because she, supported by her husband John, was giving birth to their three sons. In addition to being a judging contestant, she has been a leadsperson, coach, and official judge for the Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest and the Dairy Judging Forum. She has coached youth in the Dairyman's Contest and assisted with grade school tours. She has served on the Show Improvement Committee, the 25th Anniversary Committee, Hospitality Committee, and has been a Good Housekeeping Judge. Patty has helped with the cheese and milk booth, and has been exhibiting at the All-Dairy Antique and Collectibles Show for the past five years.

A committee composed of Patty, John Morris, and Elsie Wolff created and set the standards for the All-American Image Award. This award was instituted in 1993 to recognize those who have enhanced the image of the show by significant contributions toward its reputation, prestige, and welfare. Patty has also served as a judge for the supreme champion pageant.

Village Of Falmouth Celebrates 25 Years Of 'Running Of The Goats'

FALMOUTH (Lancaster Co.) — The fun-loving folks in the Village of Falmouth will stage their 25th annual "running of the goats" and family festivities on Saturday, Sept. 27.

The Falmouth Goat Race will take place at Governor's Stable Park, just off Pa. Route 441.

The Falmouth Goat Race, which started two and one-half decades ago as a joke among a few village residents, has become an annual event that draws thousands of visitors, who enjoy the novel races, family entertainment, and delicious Lancaster County-style food.

The festivities will kick off at 10 a.m. with opening ceremonies and the Elizabethtown Area High School Pep Band under the direction of Steve Barraclough. More musical entertainment will be provided throughout the day by "Ironwood Drive," an energetic band of accomplished teenaged bluegrass musicians returning for an encore engagement.

Plenty of goat-related activities will please visitors. Goat judging will find the best-dressed goat along with the biggest, smallest, prettiest, and ugliest. The famous Falmouth goat races, beginning at 11 a.m., will be run throughout the day.

All entrants will receive unique wood souvenir medallions created by Willcox Design and service especially for this 25th anniversary event. Don't have a goat? Rental goats will be available for spectators who wish to try their hand at racing.

And the goat festivities don't stop at the race finish line. Visitors can eat goat milk ice cream, get a goat tattoo, shop for goat-themed crafts, buy goat soap and purchase a new DVD documenting the wacky history of the Falmouth Race.

The pedal tractor pull is another family event.

"Flyball" will be a new competitive dog relay race event this year.

All-American Honors Maple Dell Farm

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As part of its 40th anniversary celebration, the All-American Dairy Show will honor Maple Dell Farm, the David Patrick Family, of Woodbine, Md., and others who have entered and exhibited their cattle at all of the previous 39 shows since its inception in 1964.

For more than four generations, the Patrick family have called Maple Dell Farms in Howard County home and show fever runs solid and deep within this Ayrshire family.

If show fever is actually an affliction of the human spirit, than no one has a more severe case than David Patrick. David, farming the family homestead, has been breeding and showing Ayrshire for more than 60 years. David has not missed a single year at the Maryland State Fair since 1941 and has attended all 39 previous years of the All-American Dairy Show in Harrisburg.

David acquired his first purebred Ayrshires as gifts from his father in the early 1940s. In 1954, he married Ann and they raised seven children on the Maple Dell Farm. Two of the seven, Michael and Dennis, are an active part of the current farming operation. All seven children were active in 4-H and junior Ayrshire activities when they were growing up on the farm. Daughter Rhonda, along with her husband, purchased a nearby 220 acre farm that is currently farmed by her father and her brothers. Daughter Terry lives in Florida, Kathy in Kansas, Carol resides in Maryland, and son J.P. is a well-known trucker in the dairy industry.

David has been a national Ayrshire member since 1947 and was active in Maryland 4-H as a youngster as are his children and grandchildren. All seven children showed Aryshires at various shows, including the All-American Dairy Show. Son Dennis is a nationally renowned dairy judge and has presided over several different breed shows at the All-American Dairy Show. His most recent All-American Dairy Show judging appearance was the 2001 Eastern National Brown Swiss Show. As Ayrshire Junior exhibitors, the third generation of Patrick's are also no strangers to the show rings of the All-American Dairy Show.

Showing cattle is and has been a family affair at the Patrick's. When the children were showing, they took turns staying with the cattle at night in Harrisburg; however, as they grew older changes were made to the routines. Now, J.P. trucks the Maple Dell showstring to Harrisburg when he is available. Usage of a housing partner farm is quite a welcomed addition to the All-American Show week routine.

The Maple Dell Aryshires house with Palmyra Ayrshires owned and exhibited by the Shenk-Creek family of Hagerstown and share the responsibilities of maintaining a showstring on the road. Although some changes have been necessary over the past 39 years, some aspects do not change. David tends to spend the most time with the cattle while in Harrisburg and usually is the main leadsperson. He is quick to say, "Older folks like myself just think the younger ones just don't quite show them the right way yet," with a smile on his face.

Maple Dell Ayrshires has won numerous classes, group classes, and champions during their 39 trips to Harrisburg for the All-American Dairy Show. David remarked, "One can always count on the stiff competition that the All-American offers, and I enjoy the challenge." Maple Dell was awarded premier Ayrshire exhibitor in 1988 and was selected as Ayrshire premier breeder in 1980, 1987, 1988, and 1989.

One of the family favorites, Maple Dell IRS Sweetnine, placed first at the All-American Dairy Show as a senior calf and the following year as a senior yearling. To complete Sweetnine's credits, she went on to be named Ayrshire All-American and All-Canadian. The following grand champion and reserve grand champion honors at the All-American has been bestowed upon Maple Dell Farm: 1984 reserve grand champion with Adrossan Kels Soft Eye, 1987 grand champion with Maple Dell Scandal's Pearl, and 1988 grand champion with Beaver Creek's Chad Julie.

David Patrick was elected to the board of directors of the All-American Dairy Show in 1998 and is serving his second term. When asked why he and Maple Dell Ayrshires have never missed a show at the All-American, David said, "Showing is in my blood. One either loves to show cattle, or they don't. Showing gives the opportunity to view and appreciate a quality animal and is a true measurement of your own cattle against the best in the country.

All-American Dairy Show Offers Junior Dairy Management Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The All-American Dairy Show offers more activities and competitions to youth than any other national show.

One of the most exciting and rewarding is the Junior Dairy Management Contest, which will be Tuesday, Sept. 23. This top quality contest challenges the youth competitor's knowledge, skills, and financial management that are needed by today's dairy farmers to make important decisions, and to be successful in the modern dairy industry.

The Junior Dairy Management Contest has seven classes. Participants are tested on the following topics: dairy cattle selection, linear trait analysis, meats identification and quality assurance of dairy beef, dairy farm business management, feed management and nutrition, biosecurity and calf health, and dairy product identification and quality. Team awards will be presented on the basis of high scores in the seven classes for the 4-H and FFA divisions.

The top five contestants overall in total score will be interviewed by a panel of three judges. Questions will be asked on a point basis to evaluate the contestant's understanding of issues facing today's dairy industry. Contestant's ability to respond orally to questions and express their thoughts clearly will also comprise points toward the final score. The youth with the highest cumulative score will receive a $1,000 scholarship.

The contest will begin with registration, requiring all contestants and coaches to report to Superintendent Dr. Michael O'Connor in the lobby between meeting rooms A and B on the second floor of the main Farm Show Building (facing Maclay Street). Sign in will be from 8:30 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. The contest is open to bona fide 4-H and FFA members who meet the necessary requirements as listed in the 2003 brochure that is available from the All-American Dairy Show office. The actual contest will begin at 9:30 a.m. and awards will be announced at 3 p.m. Contestants should only bring a clipboard and pencils — all other materials will be provided.

Dairy Checkoff To Sponsor All-American Buffet

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's dairy checkoff organizations will support the upcoming All-American Dairy Show by sponsoring the All-American Buffet Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 5:30 p.m. in the Banquet Hall of the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The Banquet Hall is located on the second floor of the new portion of the complex.

"We are pleased to work together to support the All-American and its national and regional dairy and youth shows by sponsoring the All-American Buffet again this year," said Steve Graybeal, chairman of the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association.

"Dairy exhibitors and show visitors are invited to enjoy the buffet and learn more about how dairy checkoff is helping to build demand for milk and dairy products," said Karl Kroeck, chairman of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. "A short program about current dairy checkoff programs will be presented during the meal."

In addition to sponsorship of the buffet, dairy checkoff will exhibit throughout the All-American Dairy Show, Sept. 20-25. Show visitors are encouraged to go to the dairy checkoff booth to learn more about promotion programs and how checkoff is working with industry partners to increase milk vending machine placement in schools. Dairy checkoff works with dairy processors and vending contractors, provides grants to schools and offers promotional banners to promote milk availability in schools.

The American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East, Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association and PDPP are the local planning and management organizations funded by dairy farmer checkoff dollars. They work closely with Dairy Management Inc. and are responsible for increasing demand for U.S. produced dairy products on behalf of area dairy farmers.

Holstein Show Sept. 23

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 2003 Pennsylvania Holstein Fall Championship Show will be conducted on Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 9 a.m. here at the Farm Show Complex.

Chris Hill, nationally known judge from Mt. Airy, Md. will judge. At this time, the association has more than 325 animals entered for the show, making it one of the largest fall championship shows ever.

Along with recognizing class winners in both the open and youth show, the association will be announcing the 2003 All-Pennsylvania winners, based on placings from the spring show, regional shows, and the fall show.

Two additional highlights at the fall show will be the selection of the 2003 Keystone Futurity winner. There are 39 animals eligible to show that were entered as heifers with payments made as the animals matured. The Futurity class winner will receive a check for more than $860 in prize money.

The show will also select the George M. Knight Jr. Total Performance Award winner. This award is based on the cow's production and showring placing. The award is presented by the Knight Family in honor of Knight's dedication to the show ring.

Middleweight Lambs Spring To Forefront At Solanco Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "Nice surprise" is how Tiffany Dean, Strasburg, summed up her win at Solanco Community Fair Wednesday.

The 17-year-old is a consistent winner for many years of sheep competition, but she really did not expect her entry to win grand champion market lamb this time.

Her bred-and-owned lamb was the champion in the middleweight classes. In most cases, judges select a heavyweight as the grand champion market lamb overall.

But, Scott Myers, judge from Bedford County, said all finalists were outstanding, but the middleweight had what he was looking for in structure, adequate musceling, and finish conditioning.

The frisky lamb was tough to control in the showring. Tiffany said the champion market lamb has been a jumper all her life, and no matter what Tiffany did, she could not break the lamb's gymnastic bent.

"We had to board up the whole barn to keep her in," Tiffany said.

Another surprise was the judge's choice of selecting the reserve champion middleweight owned by Shannon Wettig as the grand champion reserve market lamb overall.

But the win wasn't unexpected for Shannon.

The 9-year-old said, "I thought Oreo (the lamb's name) would win. I could tell she was better than the other sheep."

This is the first year Shannon is showing sheep.

Shannon, the daughter of Emily and Tim Wettig, Conestoga, said she gave up dance lessons and horse competition to show lambs.

"I'm going to be showing sheep forever. It's my thing," Shannon said.

Although she is attached to her lambs and walks them everyday, Shannon insisted she would not cry when the lamb was sold at the fair's sale.

Here is a partial listing of the 58 entries:

Livestock Protection Program Planned

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Amid concerns that wildlife is endangering livestock, Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff recently met with farmers in western Pennsylvania to explore the establishment of a Livestock Protection Program through the Department of Agriculture.

"During my visits to county fairs this year, farmers have frequently voiced their concerns over the effect of wildlife on domestic agriculture," Wolff said. "I am alarmed at the economic impact of this problem, and plan to work with key stakeholders to develop a livestock protection program."

In western Pennsylvania, farmers have been experiencing major problems with coyotes killing livestock. Birds and geese are also problematic as they eat vegetable crops and food meant for livestock, and also destroy water quality in farm ponds and creeks. The USDA has reported that one dairy farmer had lost $50,000 in feed in one year because of problems with barn birds. In addition, birds can also spread diseases such as avian influenza or e-coli between farms.

Berks 4-H Roundup Set For Sept. 25-26 At Reading Fairgrounds

150 Youth Project Animals To Be Sold At Roundup Auction

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks County 4-H Livestock Clubs will be conducting their annual 4-H Roundup Show and Sale on Sept. 25 and 26.

Market class competitions will take place all day Thursday, Sept. 25 and during the morning of Friday, Sept. 26. The Roundup Sale will begin at 6 p.m. Friday in the livestock barn on the Reading Fairgrounds. Champion and reserve champion animals will be sold first followed by the remainder of the market projects.

The sale order this year will be beef steers, dairy beef steers, swine, sheep and goats. Approximately 150 animals are scheduled to be sold at this year's auction.

This event will be the culmination of the livestock clubs' project year. Champion and reserve champion market projects will be awarded based upon placings of the animals at two Berks County fairs, the Reading Fair and the Kutztown Fair.

Market project calculation is also based on the scores the 4-H youth received on their annual skill-a-thon tests. Each livestock club in Berks County has skill-a-thon that weighs how much the child has learned about their respective animal species and other things that were taught during monthly 4-H meetings.

Other test questions may include feed identification, poisonous plants, breed distinctions, meat evaluation, and the correct way to fit and show the project animal.

Berks County offers sale bidders a "buy back" option. This program allows buyers to participate and support 4-H by bidding on animal without being required to take the animals. Buyers can specify they want to participate in the program when getting their bidder number. A fair market price is calculated by the weight of the animal and the most current market price. The amount you would pay for the "purchase" of the animal would be the difference between your bid and the fair market price. The company responsible for the "buy back" will pay fair market price for the animal, and the 4-H participant will receive the entire bid amount.

For more information on this program, please contact John Falter at the Berks County Extension Office at (610) 378-1327.

The Nov. 22 issue of Lancaster Farming's Dairy Plus is scheduled to include the latest quarterly TPI bull proof summaries for the major breeds as a regular part of the book. Also scheduled: sire information from businesses, our first Dairy Plus Out-standing Farm feature, and business and dairy cooperative news highlights.

FARM AND COMMUNITY SUSTAINABILITY LINKED

Tim Collins
Extension Educator For Community And Economic Development
Capitol Region

For several centuries, farming has helped sustain communities across Pennsylvania and other parts of the United States. But the continuing farm income problem threatens this way of living and doing business. Yet, for now, at least, the farmers are there, year after year, contributing to their communities in innumerable ways.

Generally, sustainability is a complex idea because it encompasses everything from the survival of basic life forms on earth to how we go about the intricacies of our local and global politics and economy.

I like to talk about community sustainability because it's something we can grasp easily. We are all concerned about the continued quality of life where we live. In this sense, sustainability, or continuing quality of life, is rooted in the place where we live, in our own backyards. We can see it, debate about it, and perhaps improve our long-run quality of life.

Pennsylvania's Departments of Environmental Protection and Conservation and Natural Resources have published some thought-provoking ideas on sustainability. They adapted general principles from the original "State of the Village Report," published by Donella Meadows in 1990 as a Global Citizen column.

First, sustainability requires that we think about both the short run and long run at the same time. We meet our present needs without compromising our ability to meet our future needs. For example, farmers consider the needs of future generations by taking care of the soil and watersheds.

Second, sustainability balances relationships of the environment, meeting our present needs with a prosperous economy, and social equity.

Third, sustainability helps us realize that we do not live in this world by ourselves. We consider perspectives of other individuals, communities, and cultures. We try to understand how our actions affect the lives of other people and animal species both here and abroad and both now and in the future.

As you might imagine, ideas like these can stir up quite a debate in some circles. There is no universal agreement about sustainability, much less how to build community sustainability.

It certainly is difficult to define sustainability. What sustains me may not sustain you.

Community sustainability is even more complicated, with changing factors such as leadership (elected and appointed), population, the economy, businesses, and land use.

Events in the larger world may have a tremendous impact on community sustainability. Look around Pennsylvania, and you'll see a lot of places where farms have gone under and businesses have closed up shop and moved elsewhere. So, we don't always have total control over sustaining our communities.

Not only that, sustainability itself may be a moving target. What sustained a community a hundred years ago is not likely to sustain it today. Technology has changed. The economy has changed. Our population has grown and spread out. Tastes and expectations of our population have changed.

Why even think about community sustainability? While difficult to attain, community sustainability is a laudable goal. It is rooted in our shared desire to maintain a good quality of life in the place where we live.

Jerseys At Home During All-American Dairy Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The well-known Spring Valley showstring of Jersey dairy cattle owned by Allen and Wayne Stiles are just as content on their Westminster, Md., farm as they are in the showring at the All-American Dairy Show.

Over the past 39 years, many awards and champion honors have been bestowed upon this elite group of Jerseys in the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex. The 2003 showstring will certainly continue to be a highly competitive force to be reckoned with in the show ring.

The Spring Valley Jersey herd originated when Allen and Wayne's father, John, left the family farm of his father, Nathan "Pap" Stiles in the 1930s and began farming with his wife, Charlotte, in Rockville, Md. The initial Stiles Family herd consisted of grade Holsteins. When their milk cooperative informed the family that they must increase their butterfat percentage in their milk shipments or they would be eliminated, the first purebred Jerseys were purchased, a few at a time, and have become a permanent part of the Stiles herd.

John and Charlotte farmed for 14 years in Rockville with their own Jersey herd. New help began to arrive when their six children were able to help on the dairy. All six of the children — Howard, Allen, Wayne, Cliff Stiles, Charlotte Stiles Maunier, and Betty Stiles Heath — showed in the Maryland 4-H program, at the Maryland State Fair, at the All-American Dairy Show, and at various other local, state, and national events. In fact, the Jerseys of the Stiles Family have become a permanent pillar at the Maryland State Fair, having exhibited close to 70 years at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County.

In 1951, the John Stiles Family moved to Frederick County on a farm with beautiful valleys and natural springs. Thus, the name Spring Valley Jerseys was chosen for the herd. Fourteen years later, the herd was moved to the current Westminster, Carroll County, location. This prestigious group of Jerseys and their owners have experienced much success. In 1964, after traveling for years to state and national shows as far away as Chicago, Nashville, and Columbus, John Stiles became excited about the new national show that was to be held in Harrisburg. Certainly the closer location was a welcome relief to traveling long distances with a full showstring and a large family to exhibit their quality animals.

Numerous class winnings, championships, first place group classes honors, and premier breeder and exhibitors banners have been won by the Stiles family's Jerseys. The most recent premier breeder and exhibitor banners were won in 2000, along with the first place Exhibitor's Herd. Following are the grand and/or reserve grand champion cows: 1968, reserve grand champion with Reviver's Wonderful Design; 1980, reserve grand champion with S.V. Merry Maid Sherry; 1984, reserve grand champion with Heaths Jackie Plus; 1989, grand champion with Glenyle S J Hetty; 1993, and 1994, grand champion with Pennsmith T J Mindy; and 1995, reserve grand champion with Sancrest MCT Sasha, co-owned with E. Kueffner.

Many of the family members have represented Maryland on 4-H dairy cattle judging teams and competed at the Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest, which is hosted by the All-American Dairy Show. Allen was a member of the team, that placed first in the contest by 60 points. Spring Valley also hosts many 4-H and collegiate dairy cattle judging teams for practice sessions when they are on route to the All-American Dairy Show. Betty Stiles Heath's grandchildren exhibit as National Jersey Junior members in the Mid-Atlantic Jersey Show during All-American Week. It is not unusual to see a few 4-Her's animals being cared for by the Stiles Family in Harrisburg.

In the late 1960s, Wayne and Allen's father, John, retired, at his request, from showing to remain at the stalls to get the animals ready for the showring. Most people who knew John, before he passed away in 1988, recall that he did more visiting back in the barns, than he ever did getting animals ready for their classes.

Wayne laughs as he recalls that one of his fondest memories of the All-American Dairy Show occurred during the 1975 flood. He remarked that he will never forget seeing Mary King, of the former Kingstead Farm, leading a heifer through waist deep water to their trailer while holding an umbrella to keep her head dry. He also recalls that most people just walked up to showstrings and grabbed two to four halters and began leading animals to safer ground.

While walking four heifers through the waist deep water, he turned around and he could only see three heads. Their Junior Jersey Calf, who has just won junior champion of the show the day before, was completely submerged in the flood water. Only her ears were visible in the water and, thankfully, she did not drown on her trip to the trailer. And a good thing that was too, as this junior calf, named Spring Valley Merry Maid Sherry, came back year after year, and was selected grand champion in 1980.

At least one member of her direct descendants has shown every year at the All-American Dairy Show since she won grand champion. One of her granddaughters was first place produce of dam with a great granddaughter to complete the pair. The 1993 and 1994 All-American Dairy Show grand champion, Pennsmith T J Mindy, was named national champion and was selected the first-ever color breed supreme champion at the Maryland State Fair.

The Spring Valley Farm and the John Stiles Family will be one of the six families honored at this year's 40th Anniversary celebration during All-American Dairy Show Week.

Small Grains Crop Insurance Deadline Sept. 30

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Raleigh Regional Office of the USDA Risk Management Agency is reminding farmers that Sept. 30 is the final date to obtain crop insurance on wheat, barley, and oats. Current small grains policyholders also have until Sept. 30 to make any changes to existing contracts.

Price elections for the 2004 crop are $3.35 per bushel for wheat, $1.85 for barley, and $1.35 for Oats.

The Crop Revenue Coverage (CRC) plan of insurance is now available in Delaware, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

The CRC plan offers guarantees against a drop in the market price. Insurance premium subsidies have been significantly increased in recent years, particularly at the higher levels of coverage. Farmers are strongly urged to contact a local crop insurance agent as soon as possible for premium quotes and other details.

For a list of crop insurance agents, farmers may contact their local USDA Farm Service Agency office or log on to the following Risk Management Agency web site: http://www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/.

40 Years Of Showing Milking Shorthorns At All-American

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than 23 years of receiving premier breeder, premier exhibitor, or both, more than 25 grand champions and or reserve grand champions, three times both grand champion and reserve grand champion, class winners too numerous to count, group class winners galore, and one of the most recognized farm prefixes known to the Milking Shorthorn breed can all be claimed by one family.

For many years, the Pinesedge Milking Shorthorn showstring dominated the show ring at the Milking Shorthorn Show at the All-American Dairy Show. The family of Samuel and Phyllis (Ryan) Yoder of Shoemakersville, have not only exhibited the past 39 consecutive years at the All-American Dairy Show, but Sam was instrumental in establishing this national show in Harrisburg, 40 years ago.

In the early 1960s, Samuel G. Yoder and his wife, Phyllis were busy milking their cows and farming the acreage of Pinesedge Farm in Berks's County. They had been farming with Samuel's father, Irwin H. Yoder on the family farm and began adding Milking Shorthorn cattle to the operation. The first cows were purchased at the Pennsylvania State Milking Shorthorn Sale held in the Farm Show Complex. Shortly, more and more were added to the herd. Eventually, the herd averaged sixty milking cows, and they became quite popular with the family.

Sam and Phyllis have four children: Samuel E. Yoder, Nedra Yoder Koller, Fred R. Yoder, and Wendy Z. Yoder. All four were active in showing the family's Milking Shorthorns through the 4-H program, and as juniors in Milking Shorthorn National Shows. Nedra and Wendy also exhibited their project animals through the FFA program at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show during All-American Dairy Show Week. The family had been traveling to various locations, including Columbus, Ohio, to exhibit on a national level. When it became known that a group of enthusiasts were trying to establish a national show in Harrisburg, Sam volunteered to help.

In the late 1950s to the early 1960s, the late Cuthbert Nairin Sr. had been working on the dream of having a national level dairy show in Harrisburg. With the Pennsylvania Farm Show limited only to state residents, Cuthbert thought Pennsylvania could accept and overcome any challenge that any breeder could bring here to exhibit.

"He felt Pennsylvania had some of the best bred and owned cattle in the world and wanted to invite the world to come and see the quality of our cattle," said Sam Yoder. Sam Yoder and many other gentlemen worked with the Pennsylvania Dairy Cattle Association (PDCA) and with former Secretary of Agriculture, Leland H. Bull, to establish the show that was first held in 1964. This show was called the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show until 2000 when the name was changed to the All-American Dairy Show to make exhibitors from across the country feel that this was "their own show."

Sam Yoder served on the first board of directors of this newly established national show as the Milking Shorthorn representative, retiring from the board after 30 years of service.

Sam has attended all 39 previous All-American Dairy Shows and is looking forward to the exciting events that are planned for the upcoming 40th Celebration this fall.

To say that the Pinesedge showstring dominated the Milking Shorthorn Show during the All-American Dairy Show would certainly be an understatement. Average size of the Yoder showstring was at least 18 head and sometimes as high as 25 animals. Sam usually spent most of the earlier years caring for the string until Nedra and Wendy were old enough to take over, showing much more interest in exhibiting the family's Milking Shorthorns than did their brothers. Sometimes, when the children were young, Sam cared for the entire string alone for much of the show week. For more than 24 years of the past 39, a Pinesedge bred or owned animal has been either grand champion or reserve grand champion. Three times the Pinesedge animals have been both grand and reserve grand champion: 1983 with Seyon Red Rose as grand and Pinesedge Cherry Cake as reserve, 1984 with Pinesedge M Cheri Tart as grand and Pinesedge G K Kizzi as reserve, and 1995 with Pinesedge BT Alfair Exp as grand and Pinesedge Pro Joyce Exp as reserve when the Kuszluk Cattle Company owned the cattle.

First-place class winners have been just too numerous to even begin to count as well as the endless group class winnings. Premier breeder and or premier exhibitor banners were won by Pinesedge Milking Shorthorns for more than 20 years — many years both were taken home to the Yoder Farm. Eight grandchildren have been involved with the animals and in 1998, Nedra Yoder Koller's daughter, Joell Koller won reserve grand champion of the junior show with her senior 2-year-old named Pinesedge Phil Harmonie.

The Pinesedge herd has been sold to the Kuszlyk Cattle Company of Baravia, N.Y. When the purchase of the herd was in negotiations, included in the final agreement was the prefix of the herd was to remain as "Pinesedge." The Kuszlyk Cattle Company has enjoyed the same remarkable success that the Yoder Family did with the cattle. They also have continued to dominate the Milking Shorthorn showring at the All-American Dairy Show.

Unity Seeds Finds New Ways to Reduce Input Costs

KENTLAND, Ind. — In an era when large corporations with underlying technology agendas own and operate many seed companies, one privately-owned enterprise in a small Midwestern town is staying focused on selling seed and doing so in ways that notably improve farmer profitability.

The growing success of Unity Seeds has led to an increase in the number of hybrids offered in the company's newest seed catalog, available free to farmers planning for the 2004 season. At the heart of Unity's product offering is a selection of both proven and exciting new high-quality conventional hybrids priced at about half of what the top-name hybrids cost.

"I'm really proud to offer corn growers a great value they don't see very often anymore," said Cathy Standish, Unity's president. "In my own experience, I know how economically tough farming can be, so I personally find satisfaction in helping farmers widen their margins."

This year, in addition to becoming a licensed Monsanto seed company, selling a selection of reliable Roundup Ready, YieldGard and stacked trait hybrids at low, direct-sale prices, Unity is also introducing to farmers a whole new concept in controlling seed costs.

An exclusive two-year low-price lock-in gives customers the opportunity to buy hybrids at Unity's lowest pricing of the season and "lock in" that same low pricing on their corn order for 2005.

"Farming can be so challenging because it's so unpredictable," said Brian Devers, Unity's operations manager. "That's why we set out to develop a buying option that provides farmers a little certainty, and it's already striking a chord with many of our new and existing customers."

Likewise, many farmers are also expressing interest in several new hybrids in the Unity 2004 lineup.

In particular, #5995 is a new early-maturity hybrid that is selling well as a strong choice for good yield potential in no-till applications. The new #6617 is also looking good as a healthy, stress-tolerant, full-season winner.

Often, when addressing questions about performance, Unity seed consultants encourage farmers to log on to unityseeds.com, where they can view hybrid comparison results on more than 25 different test plots across the country.

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2732	1239
LAST WEEK	2867	1915

This week in Lancaster County, slaughter steers sold mostly steady. Prices are already in the mid to upper 90.00 range, which seems to be about the peak for the time being. The western direct feed yards moved their steers from 88.00-90.00 in the Southern Plains, with live sales from 90.00-94.00 in the Northern Plains; 144.00-147.00 on a limited dressed sales. Boxed beef cutout values continue to trend up to record highs, Choice cuts from 162.61-163.30. with Select cuts form 133.85-134.24. Most of the cattle futures contracts at the CME remain bullish. The spot September live cattle contract closed at 90.85 on Thursday, with the November contract at 83.50. Feeder cattle futures also reflect what continues to be a very good feeder cattle market, with spot September at 100.90. Calf Summary: This week in Lancaster County, slaughter calves sold steady to 5.00 higher. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply lower for the week. Bull prices continue to slide as producers weigh national factors as they re-stock their barns, and most are not willing to pay too much for bulls after they have enjoyed such nice profits over the past few months. Holstein heifer calves sold with a higher undertone for the week. Veal calves being slaughtered on a dressed basis continue to trade in the 300.00- 330.00 range, which is slightly weaker. This week the PA department of Agriculture graded 1246 head of calves at the two graded sales, compared to 1396 head the prior week.

exhibitors' trucks were under water that was now approximately knee deep on the barn floor. Some trailers were not even able to get to the complex because of the flooding in the streets of Harrisburg. It was decided to load as many animals as possible on each trailer as it arrived in order to evacuate as soon as possible. Electricity was turned off in fear of electrical shock and the lighting became a real problem in safely moving the cattle. Many animals were led up the Large Arena ramps, walked out the front door of the complex, and actually tied to railings along Cameron Street which were on much higher ground.

"It was common for exhibitors to have animals on many different trailers and have them delivered by many different farms,' said Mary Shank Creek of Palmyra Ayrshires in Hagerstown, Md. She also remarked on the great concern the staff, board members, and everyone gave to get all of the animals safely out of danger. As a result, no animals were lost and no serious injuries occurred.

Since the 25th celebration of the All-American Dairy Show, many new features have been added to the spectacular schedule of events. Highlighting some of theses additions are as follows: in 1988 the supreme champion pageant was added and is held as the grand finale of the week's events. The first selected supreme champion was C Renvale Prestar Della, a Holstein exhibited by Lylehaven Farm of East Montpelier, Vt. As a part of the pageant, the current secretary of agriculture of Pennsylvania always presented the award. This year, Ag Secretary Dennis Wolff will bestow the honors.

In 1993 the All-American Dairy Show Image Award was added to recognize an individual who has enhanced the image of the show by significant contributions toward its reputation, prestige, and welfare. The first recipients were Lee Yost and John Walker. Decorations have adorned the show rings for more than 12 years, and for 15 years the All-American Buffet has provided exhibitors a complimentary meal on Wednesday evening.

Justin Burdette from Franklin County won the first youth showmanship contest, which was added in 1997. Exclusive to the All-American Dairy Week is the All Dairy Antiques and Collectibles Show, which was made a part of the event in 1998. In 2003, the first-ever supreme youth champion was selected and won by Brothers Three Wisper OCS, a Brown Swiss owned and bred by Jacob Hushon of York County.

President of the board, Obie Snider, commenting on the 2002 show, said, "Each year, the All-American is designed to showcase the most outstanding dairy cattle in Pennsylvania, the United States, and in Canada. The interest and excitement continues to mount for the finest show ever with increased premiums and programs for the open show and especially the 4-H, FFA, and all youth exhibitors. All attending the All-American Dairy Show will be thrilled."

And thrilled they were! Last year, $170,645 in premiums were paid out. More than 3,200 entries were received from more than 24 states and Canada, along with the most youth events and activities offered by any national dairy show.

For more than 39 years, the All-American Dairy show, known as the Granddaddy of all national shows, has offered an extravaganza of events, contests, and activities unparalleled to any national dairy show. As the All-American Dairy Show's 40th celebration nears, excitement and interest accelerates with each passing week.

This year's show will be the first All-American Dairy Show to be held in the newly completed and renovated Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex, which boasts of more than 24 acres under one roof. The All-American Dairy Show has been well known as an "exhibitor friendly" show for years, offering free parking, free admission, complimentary coffee and doughnuts breakfast, morning newspaper, complimentary buffet, complimentary ice cream social, and much more.

Some of the special events planned for this fall's 40th celebration of the All-American Dairy Show are the Eastern Elite All-Breeds Sale, with a one-time offering of hand-selected animals for sale; a display of pictures of all past grand champions in all six dairy breeds; the addition of The Eastern National Red and White Holstein Show; and recognition of six farms/exhibitors who have attended all shows since its inception in 1964. They are: Maple Dell Farm, the David Patrick Family of Woodbine, Md.; Palmyra Farm Ayrshires, the Shenk Creek Family of Hagerstown, Md.; Spring Valley Farm, the Stiles Family of Westminster, Md.; Twin-Brook Farm, the Marchezak Family of Bentleyville, Pa.; Snider Homestead Farm, the Snider Family of New Enterprise, Pa.; and Pinesedge Farm, the Koller/Yoder Family of Shoemakersville, Pa.

Show week begins Sunday, Sept. 21 and extends through Thursday, Sept. 25. For more information, contact the All-American Dairy Show office at (717) 787-2905 or e-mail aads@state.pa.us.

N.Y. Farm Bureau Salutes Governor's Anti-Hunting Veto

ALBANY, N.Y. — New York Farm Bureau applauds Governor Pataki for vetoing the so-called "canned shoot" legislation. The unnecessarily restrictive bill would have weakened rural economies, devastated deer farms, and unfairly restricted hunters.

The vetoed legislation, which was supported by zealous animal advocates like PETA and Fund for Animals, would have banned all hunts occurring in any enclosed area of land — regardless of size. Since the hunting of animals within an enclosed area of 10 acres is already prohibited by law, canned hunts are already illegal. This legislation simply would have been a first step toward the elimination of hunting altogether.

"I commend Governor Pataki for vetoing legislation which, rather than addressing a problem, sought to restrict a group of law-abiding farmers and hunters," said John Lincoln, President of New York Farm Bureau. "Hundreds of deer farmers would have had their livelihoods threatened, and countless hunters would have been left with no place to partake in their sport."

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

SPOT PRICES OF CLASS II CREAM, dollars per lb butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.6077-1.8640. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.6431-1.8873 mostly 1.7242-1.8407.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8700-.9300. Class III, spot prices: 1.1500-1 3000.

SPOTS SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This Week: In 204, Out 0; Last Week: In 161, Out 0; Last Year: In 134, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES: This Week: In 40, Out 0, Last Week: In 40, Out 0; Last Year: In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

Regional Milk Market Administrators announced the following, August 2003 uniform prices: Northeast $13.72, Mideast $12.60, Southeast $13.54, Florida $14 53, and Western New York (a state order) $12.95 at the base city or county in the orders. (For the Northeast, Mideast, and Western New York orders, statistical uniform prices are reported.) The Florida uniform price is the largest in 14 months. And, the increase in the Southeast's blend prices is the largest month-to-month increase since order reform went into effect.

Hurricane Isabel is the major topic of conversation for milk handlers and bottlers this week. With Isabel expecting to make landfall late this week, bottlers in the expected path are running daily (many normally schedule a down-day at midweek) to keep up with the retailers' demand for milk and bottled water. Long-time contacts, however, point out that this surge in demand will soon be offset by lighter orders once the storm has hit and moved through the area.

Milk production is starting to increase throughout the Southeast where gains are small but steady. In the Northeast, milk output is mostly steady. Milk supplies remains tight and Grade A milk continues to be shipped into Florida and other Southeast states. Surplus milk supplies remain light. Manufacturing plant schedules are well below normal and this week's increased bottling is pulling even more milk from manufacturing plants. A few cheese plants are taking more milk this week.

The condensed skim market is little changed and prices for Class III are up again this week. Demand for wet solids is often lighter as the current price per pound solids far exceed what it costs for NDM and the additional handling costs for reconstituting the powder.

The fluid cream market remains firm. Spot prices are often higher as the CME cash price for butter jumped nearly three cents last week. However, multiples did ease somewhat, particularly at the higher end of the range. Supplies of cream are still tight, but a few firms do have extra cream from their standardizing operations. Traders comment that getting cream out of the Western region is more difficult as producers there are keeping their cream to make butter. Ice cream output is about steady, but those operations near the Coast and in the projected path of Isabel are making plans to gear down should they need to. Cream cheese output is about steady, but it was noted that a relatively small producer has increased output for anticipated needs. Churning remains limited.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
September 12, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending Sept. 12 — Total Receipts: 382.200; last week 435,700; last year 370,100. Direct: 77,300; last week 75,700; last year 76,400. Video/Internet: 8,300, last week 153,000; last year 8,000. Auctions: 296,600, last week 207,000; last year 285,700. This weeks auction volume included 39 percent over 600 lbs and 43 percent heifers.

Compared to last week, feeder cattle and calves sold 2.00-5.00 higher in very active trading. The best demand was for yearling feeders but calf interest was also high, especially near the winter wheat regions. Southern Plains farmers were busy taking advantage of soil moisture and sowing their wheat fields. They also had their orders-in at the local livestock auctions for some lightweights to graze that wheat, once it pops up. Calf prices remain modest compared to yearlings and 700 lb steers routinely yield the same price per pound as those weighing 500 lbs. Direct feedlot trade exploded this week with live sales trending 3.00-4 00 higher from 88.00-91.00 and dressed sales ranging 5.00-7.00 higher from 140.00-145.00, mostly 143.00. Trading occurred early in the week and a few sellers left money on the table by making the mistake of only raising their asking prices by the usual 2.00. History was set as Nebraska sales broke the 90.00 mark; this price level is nothing new to Nebraska feeders, it's just that in the past it was on a dressed basis.

Northeastern slaughter cattle markets at Vintage and New Holland, Pennsylvania sold outstanding individuals for 100.00. This week's finished market blew past the previous record from late March of 1993, when prices topped out at 87.50. Broken records were also the norm for feeder prices with September CME Feeder Cattle contracts closing at 100.50 on Friday and Thursdays CME Feeder Cattle Index hitting 99.87. Conversations in country coffee shops, feedstores, and salebarns also sounded like broken records with two questions being endlessly repeated...How high is this thing going to go?...and...How long will it last? No one can answer either one, because no one predicted that markets would get within 10.00 cwt of where they are. But, if significant weakness arrives anytime soon it will undoubtedly come from technical indicators rather than fundamental. Packer buyers keep returning to feedlots in hopes that they overlooked a pen of finished cattle, but there are none to be found. We are currently experiencing the epitome of a sellers market. From Hereford, Texas to Kearney, Nebraska; most feedyards could go at least a month without selling a hoof and still not be in jeopardy of having overfinished cattle

For Super Quality Forage

Dandie says...

Next Spring Plant

High Energy Double Crops

Seed in September for Best Results

MARSHALL Annual Ryegrass

Marshall has consistently been at or near the top for first cut yields in western Maryland trials and in our own test field this spring. It is a diploid variety with excellent winter hardiness. Best fits in double crop program followed by corn.

ZORRO Italian Ryegrass

Zorro best fits for grazing and multiple harvest cropping programs with sorghum sudan as the following crop. It is better than Marshall for no-tilling into thin alfalfa, and has better forage quality than Marshall. We were pleased with the good reports we got on Zorro this spring, even though Zorro, along with most annual and Italian ryegrasses planted late had some winter injury. Some early planted Zorro (that wasn't harvested due to wet fields) had injury because of excessive growth going into winter. In most cases it grew back very well.

PERUN Festulolium

A 3 year High Energy Grass- Perun Festulolium is a very impressive 3 year crop, perfect for short rotations and extending the stand life of newly planted, slightly thinning alfafa stands. The quality and yield of Perun has been quite impressive. Perun is similar to Italian ryegrass in quality, but less heady in the summer (still has some heads). Winterhardiness is excellent. We did not see any winter damage in early spring. Perun has been the highest yielder in our plots. In New York, Perun was entered in the 2001 planting of Cornell University ryegrass trial, and it yielded over 6.85 tons of dry matter in 2002. This was 21% higher than the top perennial ryegrass.

Note: Ryegrasses and festuloliums are slower to dry than most grasses. They are best used for balage and grazing.

These High Energy Forages can be No-Tilled into Alfalfa

Dress up a plain chicken breast with a coat of dried cherry sauce accompanied by the always delicious sidedish of wild rice with mushrooms. This recipe highlights the dried tart cherries in a rich sauce of port and cranberry juice and takes the ever popular chicken breast to new heights. The nutty, smokey flavor of wild rice, prepared in a traditional recipe, acts as the perfect complement.

Cook until mixture is smooth and thickened. Remove from heat; stir in cheese and chives. Combine 2 cups sauce with cooked rice. Spread rice mixture evenly in a greased 13×9×2-inch baking dish. Make 8 indentations in the mixture with the back of a spoon. Break one egg into each indentation. Pour remaining sauce over mixture. Melt remaining butter; combine with crushed saltines. On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Odds and ends.

Official fall arrives this week, noted in teeny calendar letters but much more noticeable just by venturing outside. Days are being squeezed by later sunrises and earlier dusk. Summer bright greens and primary colors are giving way to hues of golds and orange and a few early bright red leaves. Plant foliage is fading as seeds mature on everything from fields of yellow corn to fluff-filled pods topping milkweed stalks.

But odds and ends of summer linger on for some last minute attention, to be squirrelled away for mid-winter enjoyment.

Tomatoes parked around here in several places are in final stages of ripening. A marketbasket full sits on the basement porch, a few especially nice ones have made it to the kitchen counter and a dozen or so small ones landed on the deck table enroute from a sheltered stalk grown at the calf nursery. Extended periods of rain and cloudiness challenged even the most determined gardeners this year and left our veggie patch with one of its poorest-ever, tomato crops.

So our dwindling number of orangish-tinted ones are snatched off the stalks before dampness, cooling nights, bugs, and slugs do them in. With a little luck, one more batch of canned tomatoes may find its way to the empty space on the jar shelves, only a about half as replenished as last year this time. Good thing there are a few carryovers.

Purple plum trees planted a few years ago in the meadow yielded abundantly this year. But few of them matured, tumbling from the trees from an insect or fungal affliction. Enough odds and ends of scruffy plums were salvaged — though far from picture pretty — to cook up a batch of jam. Cosmetic appearance, fortunately, is pretty much irrelevant once the fruit is smashed, mashed, and boiled.

A portion of the jam will head across the meadow to the grandkids, whose favorite lunchtime sandwich fixin's lean heavily toward peanut butter and jelly.

Odds and ends gathering usually result in a basket suggestive of that classic Thanksgiving symbol, the cornucopia, with its assortment of goodies overflowing out. One recent pass through the patch filled my basket with a small watermelon, a couple peppers, a few oversized redbeets, more of those orangish tomatoes and a handful of parsley to dry.

Such odds and ends assortments often stir memories of mom. Right about mid-September, she would corral tail-end produce from her garden — anything from carrots to giant limas beans — add to it a few purchased items, perhaps some cauliflower, process it in a sweet-sour pickling brine and turn it into a batch of "chow-chow."

Anyone have a clue how a mixture of pickled, bite-sized assorted vegetables ever came to acquire the name "chow-chow?" I've always wondered.

Despite their usual dislike of extreme moisture conditions, a grape arbor at Grandma's grew so burdened with clusters of purple Concords that the support structure partially collapsed. So when the peanut butter-and-jelly crew showed up at our door last week, laden with containers of fragrant, juicy grapes, we dug into the family recipe box for the directions for making Grape Ade.

The Grape Ade "receipt" was shared by a dear friend several years ago, a tasty and incredibly easy way to preserve more of those lingering odds and ends of summer's bounty. Grape Ade is made by putting a heaping cupful of stemmed purple grapes into each quart canning jar wanted, adding a half-cup of sugar per quart (more for sweeter juice), and filling the jar with boiling water, leaving about a half-inch expansion space at the top. Fasten lids and process the jars for five minutes in boiling water.

Sugar still visible in the bottom of the jars after processing will dissolve as the juice has a few days to develop to its full flavor. Sometimes I stretch a quart after opening with a little more sweetener and water.

Antiquers, yard-salers, and crafters are legendary for scouring sales and second-hand shops for odds and ends to convert into attractive, useful and sometimes valuable alternative products.

Some of us just focus more on scavening odds and ends for our stomachs.

Pay Yourself First

Pay-Yourself-First is a simple concept that paves the way for wealth accumulation or an upcoming need you may have. It simply means that each time you receive money from a regular source (for example, a paycheck or an allowance) or unexpectedly (for instance gifts or tax refund), you save part of it. Overtime, the saved money will grow and be available for emergencies or for long-term goals. A long term goal could be buying a car or house, paying for college, taking a vacation, retiring, or purchasing expensive items such as electronic equipment.

How much should you pay yourself each payday or allowance period? This depends on your goals and varies from person to person. The amount saved should be realistic for your income. Being consistent in your savings habit will be a key to your success, and is more important than the amount you save.

Effortless Ways to Pay-Yourself First

1. If you receive a paycheck and your employer offers direct deposit, use it. Direct deposit means that your employer sends your earnings directly to your bank. On a monthly basis, have your bank draft a predetermined amount of money from your checking account to your — pay-yourself-first account. This money can be deposited into a bank savings account, money market account, or a mutual fund. Explore your options with a bank representative, certified financial planner or someone you trust who understands money matters.

2. If you receive your income in cash or check, head for the bank the moment you get it! Make a deposit in your pay-yourself-first account before you spend any money.

3. As your income increases, put the increases in your pay-yourself-first account. For instance, if you get a $20 raise in your monthly income, put the extra $20 into your pay-yourself-first account.

The old cliches "you don't miss what you never had" or "out of sight, out of mind" apply. If money is not available, you won't spend it.

If you are thinking "But I don't have any money to pay-myself-first," review your spending habits. Ask yourself, "What can I give up or change in my present habits to increase my savings?" Starting small and being consistent will be beneficial over time.

If you save $5 a month (which could be the cost of one meal at a fast food restaurant, one video rental, or 12 pack can of soda) you will accumulate $60 in one year, $300 in five years, and $600 in 10 years.

If you save $10 a month (the cost of a pizza, or movie matinee with popcorn) you will accumulate $120 in one year; $600 in 5 years, and $1,200 in 10 years. The above figures do not include interest but just show consistent savings. When you have money in an interest bearing account money it will grow faster.

Help Children Develop Money Management Skills

If you give your children an allowance, insist that a portion of the allowance be designated for long-term savings or their pay-yourself-first account. The younger the children are when you start teaching this concept, the easier it will be for them to accept and practice it later in life. When children are very young, the 3S method — save some, spend some, and share some — is often used by parents to help children understand the concept pay-yourself-first.

Ida's Notebook

by Ida Risser

Long ago my husband's aunt, who lived to be 100 years old, often told us that she could not sleep past four o'clock. Now we too are awakening early and wishing that we could sleep. Of course, if you have some trouble or a big problem to solve that certainly will keep you awake. We've been told that you should get up and read, but I'm not sure that that is the answer.

Our recent rainy weather has helped the weeds to grow tall. Some are easy to pull while others are tightly anchored to the ground. Then comes the job of finding a place to throw the weeds. Most of the time our wheelbarrow is full of weeds waiting to be emptied. Luckily we do have land on which to dump the weeds. We live on the edge of woodland which is full of animals who live off of the vegetables in my garden.

Four of our grandchildren, who live in Georgia, went white water rafting with their families. One of the girls fell in the water. And, she was the one who was most anxious to go rafting. She was quickly fished out of the water. As our son has kayaked before he chose that method of transportation. Now I have something in common with Catherine as years ago, when I was rafting on the rain swollen Lehigh River, I too fell out of a raft and had to be pulled into another raft. At least I did not lose my glasses as some others did who also fell into the raging waters.

My sister, who recently returned from a trip to Europe, tells me that she bicycled 276 miles in Czechoslovakia. Our grandson flew to Seattle for a week to visit friends. Another grandson vactioned in New Hampshire and sent us a card. Our world today seems smaller than it did 100 years ago as it is much easier to travel to the ends of the earth.

"If you want to eat, you must go to work," Pam tells her animals and birds as she prepares to take her "zoo" to a party as entertainment.

Barnyard Inn Offers 'Stress Busters' — Animals

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

ADAMSTOWN (Berks Co.) — The name Barnyard Inn Bed and Breakfast conjures up the image of a typical farm. But the barnyard of Pam and Jerry Pozniak is anything but ordinary.

Strutting around the fenced in area surrounding the barn is an Alexandrian Ringneck that looks like a parrot but is from a parakeet family. Forty unique animals are housed on the property. Included are a chinchilla, a hairless, skinny pig, a miniature possum, a miniature horse named Bibbs, miniature sheep, Buddy the alpaca, King the llama, and a featherless Turken chicken.

"I grew up not allowed to have even a dog," Pam said. "I started with owning one goat when we lived in Long Island, N.Y. Then I saw a llama that I just had to have. And, of course, you can't have just one llama, so I got two, and everything just sort of snowballed from there."

In order to support her growing animal population, Pam came up with the idea of transporting a petting zoo to private homes and events as part of party entertainment.

"I tell my animals that if they want to eat, they must go to work," Pam said. "I take my animals wherever they pay us."

Her concept of taking a petting zoo to parties became popular among New Yorkers looking for a novel party entertainment, and for awhile Pam was content. But Long Island was not quite country enough for the Pozniaks' liking.

Jerry didn't share her love for the animals. His passion as a restaurant chef was food — not animals.

"We decided my love for animals, Jerry's for food, and our shared love for people would make a great bed and breakfast concept," Pam said.

The Pozniacs looked at many different Pennsylvania sites as a possible place to establish a bed and breakfast.

Six years ago, when the Pozniaks peeked through the windows of an empty Adamstown house, they knew they had found their home. The rocky hillside in the rear of the property is perfect for grazing animals — although the potbelly pig is known to occasionally roll down the hill.

It took the Pozniaks about one year to turn the property into a bed and breakfast. Jerry did most of the remodeling himself. Pam had the fun part — shopping the local antiques markets and sales for furnishings.

"When we purchased the property, we didn't know Adamstown was known as the antiques capital. But it's been so much fun searching the area that is so rich in antiques for the right items to furnish it," Pam said.

The large Victorian-decorated livingroom boasts some great finds: An elaborately-carved fireplace mantle, a pump organ that still works, an old barber chair, and several china closets are packed with a collection of Depression and Carnival glassware.

Each guest bedroom is named after an animal on the farm. The room's decorating theme is built around the animal it is named after. For example, the pig room is filled with "pig" collectibles. The cow room, sheep room, and llama room are filled with representative memorabilia.

It's difficult to believe that the farmhouse with an old-fashioned front porch is a former schoolhouse.

"When we purchased the property, we didn't know that. But some of our first guests were two brothers, more than 70 years of age, who had gone to school here. Their parents eventually purchased the property and turned it into a home.

"When they pointed out the original floorplan of the school, it helped me to understand some aspects of the house, such as why there was a spigot behind the family room sofa. Also the inside stairsteps are extremely wide and steep, just like those of other school steps from that era."

The Pozniacks added unique touches such as four doors tacked to the ceiling with molding trim to give it a custom-design appearance.

The animals provide never-ending entertainment for guests.

"I have a miniature possum that I tell people is a miniature hippo and they believe me," Pam said.

"Animals are stress busters," Pam said. Guests find great delight in sitting on the back balconies watching the animals.

Guests can relax in the upstairs balcony that overlooks the barnyard and its assortment of animals.

Situated in the outskirts of Adamstown — the antiques capitol of the world — the Inn serves as home to the Pozniaks, their assortment of animals, and a place for guests. The old-fashioned porch stretches across the front of the inn beneath spreading shade trees. It's a place where guests can relax on the wooden porch swing or settle in the wicker sofa and chairs. The porch is decorated like an indoor room. In addition to the wicker set, the furnishings include an old school desk, school bell, plants, and wrought iron end tables.

It would seem that the name barnyard bed and breakfast would appeal to guests who like animals, but Jerry's culinary expertise is just as much influence on returning guests.

"We serve a good breakfast. Jerry creates original recipes, and every day's menu is different," Pam said.

Potato pancakes is one of Jerry's specialties.

The Pozniaks envisioned that their bed and breakfast duties would mainly be serving guests meals and providing a clean bed.

"But we found out that our guests like us to sit down with them and talk," Pam said. They have many repeat guests who also invite them to go to dinner with them.

Adult clients only are accepted in the house, but a carriage house on the property has rooms for families with children.

The Pozniaks said their biggest surprise in the bed and breakfast industry was finding out how much work it is. They hire help for cleaning and the care of the animals.

"At first we tried to do everything ourselves, but it was a 24-hour-a-day job and we didn't get to go anywhere. We learned to take some time off," Pam said.

She found out that it's better to allow laundry to accumulate and take it once a week to the laundromat where everything can done at one time. It requires four hours — but because it's a once-a-week job, it's 'doable.'

"It's a real panic if a helper gets sick, and we need to cook two breakfasts, clean, take care of the animals — and squirt on some perfume — before the next guests come," Pam said.

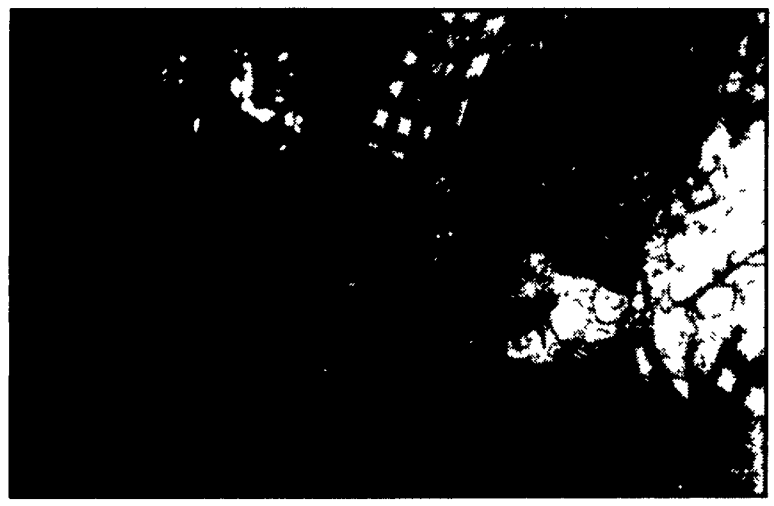
In addition to the bed and breakfast, Pam continues taking her animal collection to parties. She takes what she calls a small zoo of 20 caged animals or the large zoo, which includes 30 large animals.

"We thought operating a bed and breakfast would be a great way to retire," Pam said. "Wrong!

"It's so much work."

Nonetheless, Pam said, "I don't miss New York, and neither do my animals."

For more information on the Barnyard Inn, call (888) 738-6624.



Guests are often gullible enough to believe that this miniature possum is a miniature hippo.

The Denver Fair, Denver, offered elephant rides last week to the delight of children and adults.

93 Sheep Flock To Denver Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — "This is a super group, but one has popped out as champion all day," said Annette Lovell, who judged the Denver Fair sheep show last week.

Lovell selected Ryan Donough's impressive bred-and-owned ewe for grand champion market honors for style, uniformity, and finish.

Donough, 19, a student at Lancaster's Harrisburg Area Community College, was pleased that his sister Joelynn, 16, showed the reserve grand champion market lamb.

Although the brother-and-sister team help each other care for their flock of 20 ewes on the family's Manheim farm, they keep their individual ewes separated but use the same ram.

Grand champion ram honors in breeding sheep to Kellie Graef, showing a Romney, and reserve went to Jimmy Zimmerman with a Southdown.

Joelynn's lamb named Pixel was the grand champion non-sale lamb at Elizabethtown Fair several weeks ago. But Joelynn knew she couldn't coast on that success throughout remaining competitions.

"I knew he (my brother) would beat me out. His lamb is awesome," she said. "But I love mine. I will never sell her."

In breeding sheep competition, Denver Fair selects the best ewe and ram over all breeds. Grand champion ram of the show was a Romney shown by Kellie Graef, 16. It was Kellie's first grand champion overall in her eight years of showing sheep at area fairs near her family's Robesonia home. She and her sister raise 24 head of Romneys and Hampshires.

Grand champion ewe was a Suffolk shown by Andrew Gerhart. The Reinholds youth has exhibited champions at several area fairs.

Jimmy Zimmerman showed a Southdown ram and a ewe to take reserve grand championships in both the ram and ewe competition. Both had claimed top placing in Southdown breed competition. Jimmy and his sister Jen have 50-60 head on the family's Reinhold's farm.

Championships in other breeds included Hampshire with Jen Hughes showing both grand champion ewe and ram. Jen Zimmerman showed grand champion ewe and ram in the Horned Dorset breed. Natural colored grand champion ram and ewe was shown by Ryan Donough. Oxford grand champion ram and ewe were bred and owned by Joelyn Donough.

Kellie Graeff's Romney ram and ewe won the breed championship with the ram named best of the show.

QUESTION — A reader wants complete instructions and recipe to make cheese.

QUESTION — Margaret Grieff, Sidman, wants a recipe for fillings and dough to make "Hot Pockets."

QUESTION — Margaret Grieff, Sidman, wants to know if Cool Whip may be interchanged with whipped cream in recipes.

QUESTION — Brenda Martin, Reinholds, wants a recipe to make soy sauce.

QUESTION — Joyce Shoemaker, Mount Joy, wants a recipe for corn fries that taste like those served at Oregon Dairy Restaurant. She writes that the corn fries look like French fries.

ANSWER — Melanie Martin wanted a yogurt recipe that uses Clear Jel or unflavored gelatin. Thanks to Mrs. King who sent a recipe her family enjoys.

Unflavored Yogurt

1 gallon milk
2 tablespoons plain gelatin
Cold water
1 cup plain yogurt
2 cups sugar or honey
¼ cup Jell-O to thicken fruit if desired

Heat one gallon milk to 180 degrees or almost to boiling. Stir in 2 tablespoons plain gelatin dissolved in a little cold water. Cool quickly to 110-115-degrees or until you can hold your hand in the mixture for one minute.

Beat in 1 cup plain yogurt. Set in gas stove undisturbed 10-12 hours.

Beat in 2 cups sugar or honey, ¼ cup Jell-O can be added or thickened fruit.

You can remove one cup before adding sugar or honey and put in freezer to use when making the next batch instead of buying plain yogurt at the store.

ANSWER — Ruth Klinger, Selinsgrove, wanted a recipe for Key Lime Pie. One was printed in last week's column; however, here are two very different recipes, which show there is more than one way to make a pie. Thanks to Frances Homa, Alpha, N.J., and Walter Durling, who writes that bottles of key lime juice from Florida are available in better-stocked grocery stores (in the specialty foods aisle or with lemon and lime juices). The brand he uses has a recipe on the label and the pies taste just like those his mom made when she lived in Key West and had access to real key limes. If you can't find the juice in your supermarket, you can mailorder from Key West Lime Juice — The Flavor of Old Key West, Biddle Enterprises, Inc., Key West Lime Juice, 13995 S.W. 139 Court, Miami, FL 33186.

Mrs. Biddle's Key Lime Pie

14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
4 egg yolks
3-4-ounces Key Lime juice (depending on taste)

Combine milk and egg yolks at low speed. Slowly add juice, mixing until well blended. Pour into 9-inch graham cracker pie shell and refrigerate overnight, or if preferred, pie may be baked at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Top with whipped cream or meringue and enjoy.

Key Lime Pie

1 baked 9-inch pastry shell
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
4 eggs, separated
½ cup water
1 tablespoon grated lime peel
Green food coloring
½ cup lime juice
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Mix gelatin, ½ cup sugar, and salt in saucepan. Beat together egg yolks and water. Stir into gelatin mixture. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Remove from heat and stir in grated peel and lime juice. Add enough food coloring to make a pale, green color. Chill, stirring occasionally, until thick. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Gradually add remaining sugar. Fold gelatin mixture into egg whites and fold in whipped cream. Spoon into pastry shell. Chill until firm. Spread with additional whipped cream. Sprinkle additional grated lime peel around edge of pie. Serve cold.

Life On The Farm With Berks County Li'l Dairy Miss Jessica Duncan

Jessica drives the Ranger from her home to the cornfield with dog Mazie accompanying her.

The maze contains surprises, such as this, for kids.

Jessica, Luke, and her dad stroll through the corn maze.

ROBESONIA (Berks Co.) — Life on the farm means never-ending variety for Berks County's Li'l Dairy Miss Jessica Duncan.

Like most dairy farm kids, Jessica has her own calves and is responsible caring for them and other farm chores. But she also performs some other amazing duties at the family farm's Duncan's Corn Maze, from September through the first weekend in November.

Jessica's only seven years old, but already she is poised and confident in interacting with adults and children of all ages.

When Jessica competed for the title of Li'l Dairy Miss at the Berks County Dairy Princess Pageant in May, she recited a poem. She often recites the poem when she visits nursing homes, schools, and other events to promote the dairy industry.

She flips through pages of illustrations she colored while reciting the following poem, which her teacher at Conrad Weiser Elementary School helped her write:

I Love Ice Cream

"I is for icy, cold (shiver)
C is for chocolate ice cream
E is for excellent nutrition, butter, cheese, and yogurt
C is for calcium to keep bones strong
R is for raspberry ice cream
E is for everybody loves ice cream
A is for all the time is a good time for ice cream
M is for milk mustache (she takes a sip of milk, which gives her a milk mustache)

Some of her unusual experiences include going up in an airplane to view the corn maze from the air.

"I didn't get sick, and I could easily read it," Jessica said of the message carved into the waving cornfields: "Real Seal, 3-A-Day." The slogan refers to the dairy promotion that reminds everyone that three daily servings of dairy products are needed for strong bones and teeth and to avoid osteoporosis.

In fact, the message was selected because Jessica's job as the Berks County Li'l Dairy Miss is to promote milk and dairy products. Her parents, D.J. and Loretta Duncan, carve a different design in their fields every year. Visitors find their way through the cornfield maze by selecting right answers to clues along the way.

Jessica made up a sheet of clues for visitors to use. During special events conducted during the corn maze hours, Jessica operates a tent where visitors can participate in face-painting and pumpkin-painting. She also hand-stamps a pumpkin on visitors to the maze.

If the weather is hot enough, visitors solving the maze can cool off in the "Rain Room," which has a big fan that blows a mist over visitors.

The Rain Room is one of Jessica's and her 7-year-old brother Luke's favorite activities in the maze. Another favorite activity is the pumpkin sling, where people use a sling shot to shoot pumpkins at a target.

Li'l Dairy Miss Jessica recites her poem, "I Love Ice Cream."

"It's fun to watch the pumpkins splat," Jessica said.

On occasion, she likes to accompany the hayride given to visitors. The tractor and wagon rides take visitors around the farm and area with a stop at the calf barns. That's where Jessica's special calves are growing.

During October, the hayride stops at the Duncan's one-acre pumpkin patch for visitors to choose a pumpkin.

Jessica also hands out ribbons in dairy shows at fairs.

"I can't wait until I'm old enough to join 4-H," she said.

If you want, you can visit the Duncan's Corn Maze for great fun. The corn maze is located on the Robesonia-Bernville Road, one mile from Rt. 422 or six miles from Rt. 183.

The maze is open every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday from September through Nov. 1-2, from 1 p.m.-8 p.m. Admission is $5 for 5 years old and older, and $2 for 5-year-olds and younger.

For more information, call the Duncans at (610) 693-8056 or check out the Website, www.duncanscornmaze.com.

Jessica makes sure her calves get lots of cuddling. Her brother Luke also likes to play with the calves.

Jessica and her brother Luke cool off in the rain room erected in the Duncan Family's Corn Maze.

Ashley Bird, Centre County Dairy Princess, along with her court, committee members, and friends of the industry serve approximately 1,400 people of all ages a giant ice cream sundae. The sundae was built with 75 gallons of vanilla ice cream, 2 gallons of chocolate syrup, 2 gallons of pineapple, and 2 gallons of cherries which were all donated along with cups and spoons by John Fritz of Sunset Ice Cream in Williamsport. The Giant Sundae is an annual tradition at the Centre County Grange Encampment and Fair and is conducted on Monday to celebrate kiddies' day.

Along with the sundae this year at the fair, Ashley participated in the dairy shows, sold the gallon of milk from the grand champion Holstein owned by Buck Gates of Warriors Mark, which was auctioned for $650. The money is equally divided between dairy promotion and the 4-H Holstein clubs.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerner, Wysox, writes that some time ago she had clipped an answer in this column from Joyce Raubenstine who told how to make creams from aloe vera. Heat gently for 20 minutes. Cool slightly and strain.

Shirley writes that her husband's chronic back problem was aggravated during haymaking. She rubbed aloe vera leaves on his back, and it helped instantly. He was amazed. It was a sloppy procedure, so they'd like to make the salve if possible.

Shirley adds a bit of humor by writing that she can't boil water without a 3x5 card, "so you can see my problem with the aloe vera (instructions)."

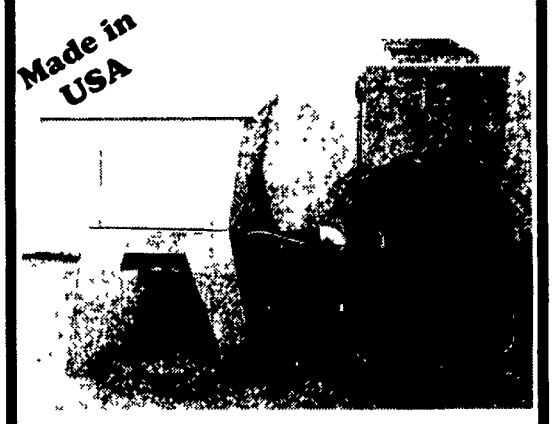
Heat with Corn!



Burn Shelled Corn In This Biomass Furnace

A BETTER ALTERNATIVE

The corn burning furnace has many advantages over wood and coal heat The large storage bin holds up to 14 bushels of fuel, which is automatically fed into the combustion chamber as needed. There's no need to load the furnace several times a day The use of corn also eliminates the bark mess, insects, splinters, and handling problems connected with the use of wood fuel, and the dust and dirt from coal UL Approved

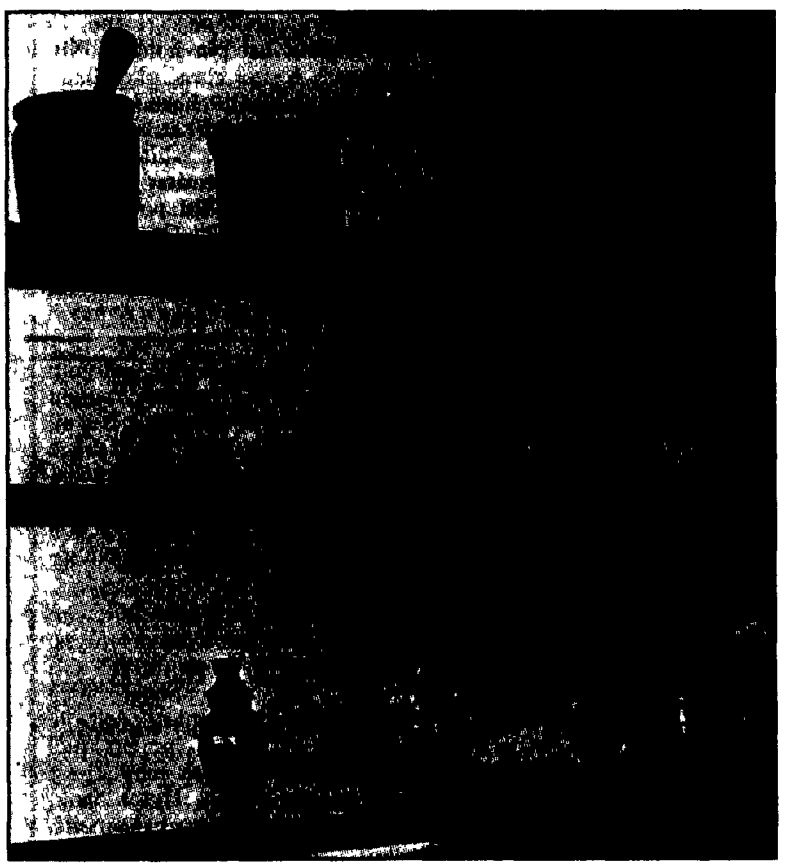
'Hershey' Means More Than Chocolate

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The words "Hershey's" and "chocolate" are synonymous to chocolate lovers everywhere. But those words confer a additional sweet meaning if you are a collector.

Hershey's tins, advertising pieces, candy wrappers, and memorabilia create a whole new interest in the story of chocolate, and of Milton Hershey, who founded the Hershey Chocolate Company in 1894. If you're lucky, you can even find some items from 1876, when Hershey began to manufacture caramels in Philadelphia.

Hershey's kitchen where he experimented making candy is recreated at the museum.



The glazed stoneware crocks held ingredients for chocolate making. The other items were also used to hold flavors, colors, and extracts during the early day's of Hershey's candy making venture.

Some of the products Hershey introduced lasted only a few years, which makes containers such as this Hershey chocolate tin, container for hot chocolate drink, and even "Bis Crisp" to go with the hot chocolate.

Hershey apprenticed in Lancaster and manufactured candy in Lancaster and Philadelphia before his huge success in Dauphin County, where he founded the town of Hershey.

One of the best places to learn about the Hershey Chocolate Company and its founder is the Hershey Museum, 170 W. Hersheypark Drive, Hershey.

Pieces on display tell the story of Hershey Chocolate. Some little-known events can aid those who are interested in collecting Hershey-related items. For example, did you know that at one time, the company manufactured cocoa butter, toilet soap, soap granules, tar soap, and other soaps?

The reason behind the soap venture is that cocoa butter is a liquid essence of the cocoa bean. The excess cocoa butter was extracted from the beans. Since cocoa butter is a moisturizer often used in soap, it seemed natural to manufacture products using it. Evidently, the venture was not highly successful, as the company only made it for a short time.

The Hershey Company even manufactured gum — but not chocolate flavored. Instead, Hershey sought to compete with Wrigley and offered mint-flavored gum from 1915-1924. But they ceased production because it wasn't profitable.

Of interest to farmers is that Hershey started a Lebanon milk processing plant in 1914, which closed in 1938. In 1929, Hershey opened their own dairy, which they sold to Lenherbrook Farms in 1971.

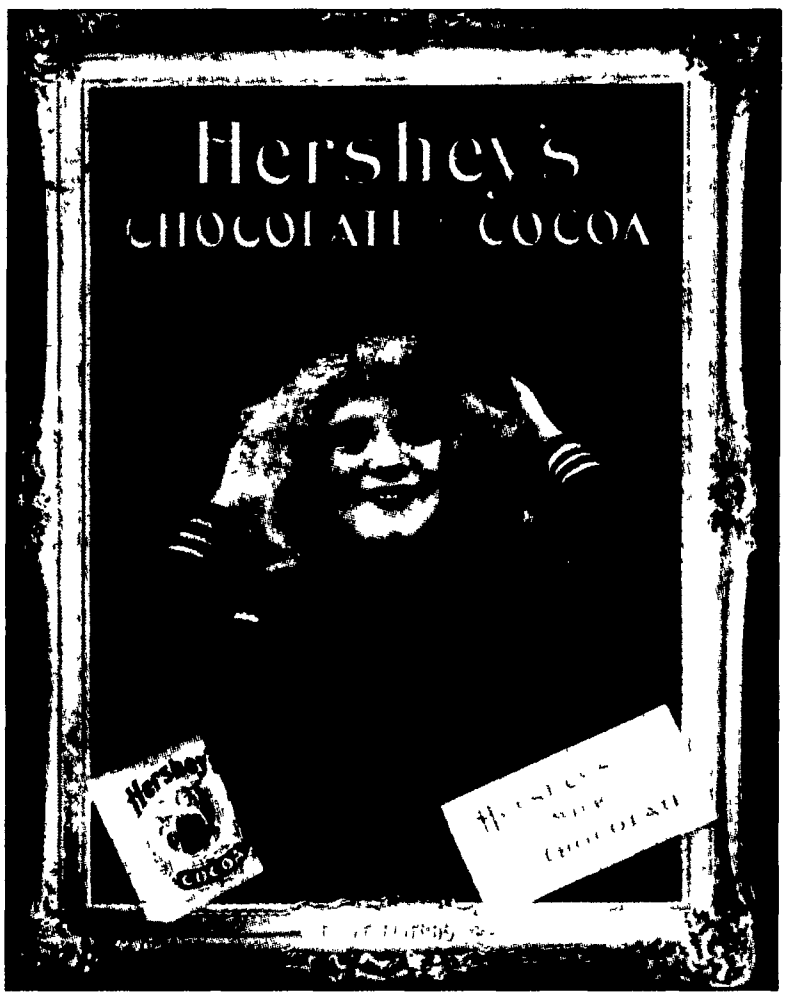
The Hershey Confectionery Shop Kitchen has been recreated to show what Hershey used to experiment with candy making in Philadelphia. Gas lights, plaster molds, crocks, scales, and other items from that era will also be of interest to collectors.

Each item and section of the museum are clearly marked so that visitors can tour the museum independently.

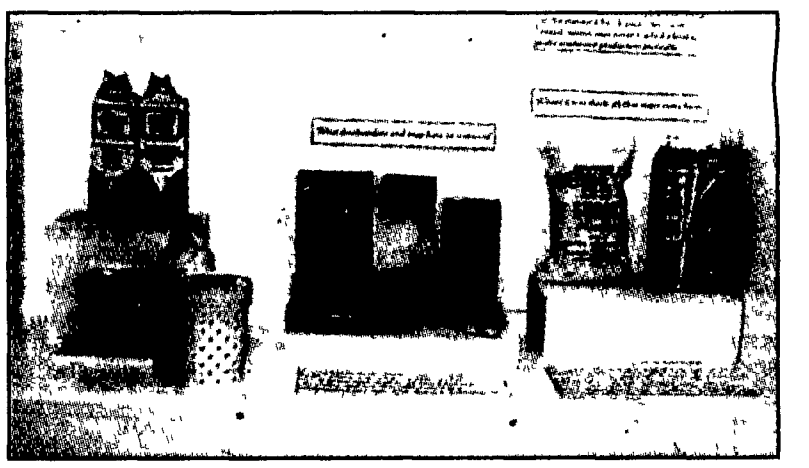
In addition to tracing the fascinating story of Milton Hershey and chocolate, the museum also follows the lives of chocolate factory workers from 1894 until 1994, Hershey's link to Cuba, displays of Pennsylvania German pieces, and American Indian artifacts collected by Hershey.

For more information on the museum, call (717) 534-3439.

These heavy plaster molds were used to create marshmallow bunnies and birds to be dipped in chocolate.



This is a rare example of Hershey's turn-of-the-century promotional art (circa 1900), used when Hershey was still making cocoa and milk chocolate in Lancaster.



Did you know that Hershey's at one time experimented with making toilet soap, soap granules, shave soap, tar soap, and selling sugar?

This display case at Hershey Museum shows items used by Pennsylvania German families, including Hershey's. The top shelves hold imported English earthenware. The bottom shelf contains a wooden butter print, cast iron trivet, pewter candlesticks, teapot, tin coffee pots and creamer.

Decorated Old Boxes Served Many Purposes

Whether they are fancifully painted or inlaid with contrasting woods and other materials, small 19th century, utilitarian boxes are appreciated for their artistry.

When they show up at an Americana auction they classify as folk art. For the most part, when compared to other antiques, they are still affordable. Often they are overlooked and underpriced at estate and garage sales. This is especially true of those with painted scenes.

Years ago I found one charming, small painted box in the waste basket at a garage sale. "You want that?" was the seller's retort. For $5, I went home with a Rufus Porter type box. Porter (1792-1884) is one of the few known folk artists, who painted not only boxes but portraits, murals, landscapes and silhouettes. His boxes have sold for more than $20,000. Even painted boxes without a known maker, but a popular subject such as an American eagle or charming design could sell for more than $6,000.

The boxes, painted freehand or with stencils, were made mostly around Pennsylvania and New England. Those from Pennsylvania can be recognized usually by stylized German designs such as birds and tulips. New England boxes used softer colors.

Decorating techniques can help date a box. Around 1825 sponging, smoking and grain-painted techniques were popular.

Wood wasn't the only material painted. Tinware boxes, when painted, are known as toleware. The earliest examples were painted freehand, beginning in the first quarter of the 19th century. By mid-century they were done with stenciled designs.

Carved boxes, made in the 18th century can still turn up. For the most part they show the motifs of Dutch and English craftsmen. Chip carving and relief carving were also done.

Motifs included geometrics, folliage, doves and sometimes animals or flowers. Oak and pine were common materials.

Until recently tramp-art, notch-carved boxes, made from the the 1860s through the 1920s were inexpensive...depending where you found them. These days the most detailed examples can cost from the high hundreds and up. While most pieces were made of cigar boxes, others were made of pine.

A box doesn't have to be 19th century to be collectible if it is unique. One example came to auction recently and it was truly unique. An optical illusion inlaid box featured a repeating square motif that gave the illusion of stacked blocks. The center panel of birds, made up of tiny 1/16-inch square pieces of literally thousands of pieces.

The box was made by deceased 20th century folk artist Joe Bonefont.

CLUES: It's "buyer beware" when it comes to painted boxes. Fakes abound. Some of the fakes are artificially aged. Others are repainted. Check for signs of early tool marks.

Be especially wary of painted tinware. It has never stopped being made. If it supposedly used oil paint, an old box should have an overall network of cracks and signs of wear on the background.

The least expensive are carved, figural boxes or those decorated by woodburning (pyrography). This was a popular hobby and craft from the 1890s to around 1910. A popular subject was the "Gibson Girl" with her pompador hairdo.

A platinum-pointed burner was used to burn designs into soft wood. Oil paints and water colors filled in the designs. Designs came ready-stemped.

The figural boxes are a form of 20th century folk art and usually show up at mall shows or in rural antique shops.

Anita Gold Answers Questions About Cow Molds, Milk Bottles, More

Glass Cow Molds Worth Moolah

Could you provide me with any information regarding a glass butter mold with a cow design, and tell me what it could possibly be worth?

Georgia Marshall
Indianapolis, Ind.

Most of the butter molds manufactured in the 19th century were made of wood. The few that were made of glass were patented pieces manufactured in the last third of the century. Such examples are clear pressed or molded glass and are of the plunger type, consisting of a cylindrical cup-shaped glass piece and an inner round glass tamp attached to a wooden handle, that would move up and down through a hole at the top of the outer cylinder.

The most attractive feature of such glass butter molds is their designs that were incised or pressed into the glass tamp. When butter was packed into the glass cylinder and pushed out with the wooden plunger handle attached to the tamp, the butter was embossed with the mold's design. Some glass butter molds, were designed with a star motif, others had a fleur-de-lis, and still others (which are the most popular and sought-after examples) are designed with a figure of a standing cow. However, reproductions with the cow motif were made, and therefore can easily fool the unwary unless one knows how to spot an original.

Some genuine glass butter molds with the standing cow motif are embossed with the words "Bomer Pat. Apld. For" around the sides of the outer cylinder. Others that are authentic are embossed or marked with a patent date. Such examples are genuine, and although there are other genuine examples with the cow motif that are not marked with the name or patent date, their authenticity is questionable.

If you ever come across a glass butter mold with the cow design, and have difficulty distinguishing whether it's an original or a reproduction, here are some handy tips that'll help you decide. On some reproductions, the glass has a bit of a greenish tinge or tint, and when held up to the light, it shows flaws, bubbles, and has wavy and uneven surfaces to appear old-looking. (Genuine examples are of clear glass with no tinted color).

Also on some of the reproductions, the bottom edge of the outer cylinder is not perfectly round, and on some copies a somewhat pleated or scalloped area can be felt when the finger is run around the inside of the mold. (When you do the same thing to a genuine example, it should feel smooth). The tops of some reproductions (when looking straight down on the mold's cup-shaped part) look pitted to appear old. A good clue is the wooden plunger handle (attached to the tamp) which on a genuine example is topped off by a nicely turned and rounded mushroom-shaped finial that's stained a honey-brown or butternut color. The handle on a reproduced example is of crude workmanship and of unfinished wood, and has a flat knob at the top. Then, too, the outer cylinder on some of the reproductions is somewhat shorter (measuring 2 7/8 inches high), while the originals are taller measuring 3-inches high). The value of a glass butter mold with a cow design, depends on its condition and markings. Original old examples in good condition with no cracks or chips in the glass, can command as much as $100 or $200 because of their scarcity. The nice thing about glass butter molds is that they can still be used and are easily cleaned afterwards, as most collectors do not particularly care to use old wooden types.

An elderly neighbor recently moved into a retirement home, and left behind dozens of embossed brass planters, pots, and urns which once held plants and flowers, but are now covered with dirt and tar-like stains, spots, and streaks that are impossible to remove being kept in a damp flooded basement for a number of years. I've tried numerous brass polishes and other types of cleaning products, but the black stains and streaks won't budge. What (if anything) will clean such pieces? Gloria Peterson, Gary, IN

To restore the pieces to their original shine and watch them come to life as they glimmer and glow right before your eyes, use MAAS Metal Polish which has a powerful "wipe on wipe off" formula that instantly removes years of residue, rust, tarnish, and oxidation from all metals, and leaves a brilliant reflective long-lasting shine that can last for as long as a year or even longer. It is available in a large bottle for $9.95 plus $2.95 shipping from MAAS Polishing Systemes, Dept. D, P.O. Box 128, La Grange, IL 60525-0128. Also, to preserve and keep outdoor brass lanterns, lamps, and other metals exposed to harsh weather looking beautiful, use MAAS Metal Protector, Extreme Protection for all Metals, which has an anti-tarnish formula which applies super-strong long-lasting protection to all metals and more, available in a large tube for $9.95 plus $2.95 shipping from MAAS Polishing Systemes, Dept. TWO GREAT TRAIN AUCTIONS
EQUIPMENT COVERING 1920 TO 2000
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 2003
10:00 A.M.
EXHIBITION: 7-9 P.M. FRIDAY, 8-10 A.M. SATURDAY
RIDGE FIRE COMPANY
Along Rt. 23, between Phoenixville, PA & Rt. 100

Dr. Eugene Bogucki of Short Hills, New Jersey, has moved to more comfortable quarters. I had a most enjoyable chat with him, while removing the collection from its surgically-clean surroundings. Mostly modern era repro. standard gauge, well displayed and protected, we thought. Dr. Bogucki had prepared a surprise for us, but he never tipped his hand. We asked the doctor's son if there were boxes for those trains, and he showed us a cavernous space which did, indeed, hold boxes for those trains on display, but also revealed an entire collection of original prewar trains that were not on display - a nice surprise, and we're sure you will agree!

In The Pavilion, Kathy will be selling a knock-down, drag-out 754-lot free-for-all modern era train auction that includes die cast autos, Winross & Ertl trucks, K-line, Lionel, LTI, MPC, MTH, Books, Williams, various toys, LLC, videos, etc.

10% Buyer's Premium and 2% Buyer's Charge will be applied.
2% discount for cash or good check day of sale.

6 quality bred service bulls sell!!! Bred and sired by A.I. and Elite Natural Service Bulls. Extensive veterinarian supervised vaccination program. All necessary cattle will be pregnancy checked prior to the sale. Interstate tested. Semen tank & over 300 units of Semen sell!!

A great deal of credit should be given to the team at Norco Farm for the breeding and development of this fine herd. The cows possess the strength and deep rib of true dairy cows. They walk on top feet and legs with sound udders as witnessed by the low somatic cell count. The heifers are well grown and carry the same fine attributes of the milking herd. Herd health has been a top priority at Norco. Vaccination programs have been followed to the letter. The only reason a herd of this high quality is for sale is the untimely death of one of the partners.

McCormick USA introduces the CX 05 series of tractors (73 hp to 102 hp engine) featuring the new XtraShift transmission, developed by McCormick International.

McCormick Offers New CX 05 Series Of Tractors

PELLA, Iowa — McCormick USA introduces a new transmission and model numbers for its medium-duty line of CX series (73 hp to 102 hp engine) tractors.

The CX 05 series features a new optional XtraShift transmission, designed and engineered by McCormick USA, with 24 forward and 24 reverse speeds as options to the standard synchromesh shuttle transmission.

"The new XtraShift transmission provides operators with eight gears and three speeds within each gear to improve versatility and field performance, while making life easier for the driver," said Tom Ogle, product manager for McCormick USA. "The eight gears offer no duplication of speeds from one gear to another, providing the operator with a full choice of 24 forward and reverse speeds."

Customers can also select a creep transmission with 36 speeds in both directions. XtraShift also offers forward and reverse speed matching to improve operator productivity.

A thumb switch, mounted to the side of the gear level, provides fingertip ease when selecting power shift speeds. XtraShift also features a de-clutch button, located on the front face of the gear level, which allows the operator to make a gear change without having to depress the clutch pedal. An auto start function ensures a smooth progressive take up of drive if the operator releases the pedal too quickly.

The XtraShift transmission also features a well-positioned left hand control power shuttle that allows the operator to move from forward to reverse without clutching. The power shuttle also features a neutral position for convenient stopping during loader and baling operations.

"These features make the CX 05 series and XtraShift a clear leader in transmission technology among the medium-duty line of tractors on the market today," Ogle said.

Super Deal New Case IH MX Magnum 210

Rated 170 PTo HP

The Case IH 3-row corn head grabs every stalk you grow, even in lodged crop conditions. The cutting discs shear corn close to the ground and are sprin-loaded, allowing them to move out of the way when they encounter an obstacle.

Model HDX3R 3-row corn head

THIS HEAD EFFICANCY GATHERS CORN STALKS PLANTED ON 28 TO 32 IN. ROW SPACING. THE POINTS FLOAT OVER GROUND CONTOURS AND SKID SHOES ARE ADJUSTABLE TO ELIMINATE BULLDOZING. THE GATHERING CHAINS REACH FORWARD TO GRASP CORN STALKS BEFORE THEY'RE CUT AND FEED THEM SMOOTHLY INTO THE FEEDROLLS.

Heavy-duty design. The FHX300 was expressly designed for use with high-horsepower tractors — those from 180 to 300 horsepower. The wide, 24.4 in. (620 mm) that opening swallows your heaviest crops, while the 1000-rpm driveline, heavy-duty components and wide crop heads are made to harness big-tractor horsepower and turn it into high-capacity harvesting performance. You control FHX300 operations right from your tractor seat using electric standard hydraulic tongue swing.

How do you shatter the world plowing record set by a 425 hp track tractor? You don't have to get bigger. You don't have to get tracks. You just have to get better. That's what happened when the Massey Ferguson 8280 fixed frame wheeled tractor set a new world record. The MF 8280 fine tuned to deliver 387 hp, outdid the predecessor by nearly 100 acres, plowing 621 acres in 24 hours.

What makes the MF 8280 better? Take a world class engine, a transmission that won't quit and add a powerful hydraulic system. Throw in a high tech control system that automatically monitors and adjusts the flow of power to the wheels for less slip and you've got better. ..more than 24 acres an hour better.

So don't just get a bigger tractor next time you have a big job to do. Get a better tractor. Get a Massey Ferguson 8280 and shatter some records yourself.

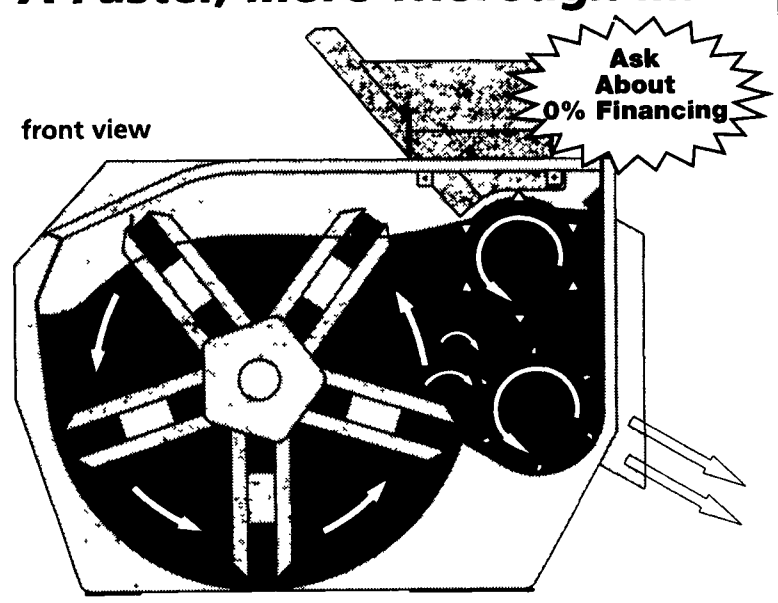
Get the REEL Advantage

A Faster, More Thorough Mix

front view



The large-diameter reel provides a gentle tumbling action and the two side augers produce an end-to-end blending action. This unique combination ensures faster mixing and unloading times, and a very thorough mix, even when mixing small batches.

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Even though snow still has an icy grip on Pennsylvania, producers couldn't help thinking about spring planting and next year's crop as they gathered recently at the Holiday Inn in Grantville for the 2003 Corn and Soybean Conference.
Top placings in the classes are in a related story on this page.
More than 100 producers and industry representatives attended the event sponsored by the Pennsylvania Corn Growers Association, the Pennsylvania Soybean Board, and Penn State Cooperative Extension.
The [illegible] professor, School of Hotel, Restaurant and Recreation Management, Penn State, discussed a new energy drink developed on funds from Pennsylvania Soybean Promotion Board grant.
After the product was developed and tested (a process that took 15 months), it was moved on to consumer testing. The university's football team was picked as the group of consumers to try the product.
After practice, researchers asked the players opinions of the drink, which resembles a chocolate milkshake, according to Bordi. "The players actually developed the drink — they told us what they liked and didn't like," he said.
By NCAA rules, the drink could be no more than 30 per cent protein. Pasteurized as Penn States Creamery, it has a shelf life of 30-45 days.
Besides taste, health benefits were also an important [illegible]. Using [illegible] gathered weight data, measured dietary intake, and took blood and urine samples. They also asked the players to rate their pain on a numeric scale.

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — The recent Pennsylvania Corn and Soybean Conference drew approximately 125 producers and industry representatives to a one day event conducted here at the Holiday Inn.
The Pennsylvania Corn Growers Association (PCGA), Pennsylvania Soybean Board and Penn State Cooperative Extension sponsored the event.
Contest results are also a highlight of the conference. There were 67 participants in the Five Acre Corn Club [illegible]

Kyle Henninger, left, won the shelled corn no-till contest with 223.7 bushels per acre. With the win, Henninger will go to the Commodity Classic in Charlotte, N.C. Last year Henninger won first place in both the Pennsylvania and national shelled corn no-till classes. Herman Manbeck, Womelsdorf, had a third in the shelled corn no-till class. MILLERSTOWN (Perry Co.) — Driving by sight and relying on dark marks and foam will be a thing of the past for farmers who opt to use digital technology to guide their field equipment.
Using the traditional foam marker may prove to be challenging at times, said Calvin Fry, assistant service manager at Hoober Inc.

MOVING OUR INDUSTRY FORWARD WITH PARTNERSHIPS
I do a lot of traveling around the region and the state and I continue to hear many producers and industry folks ask what we need to be doing to move our corn and grain industry ahead in Penn[illegible]sylvania in these trying times.
I think we are starting to make progress, but it's difficult to achieve much by working alone.
Many of us believe that just by working harder each day we can accomplish our goals, but I'm finding that by working together in partnerships among industry, university, producers and government, we can achieve things that one group cannot achieve alone.
I've seen numerous examples of this starting to happen in other regions and now starting to happen in our industry here in Pennsylvania as

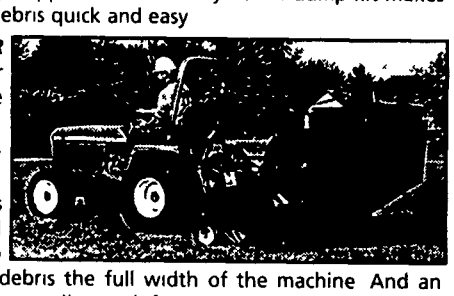
Flail Pick-Up Mower
60" and 72" models

"LAWN GENIE®" provides the safest and most efficient grounds maintenance system available...mower, pick-up mower, thatcher and vacuum action sweeper.

THE PRECISION BALANCED ROTOR AND KNIVES rotate against the direction of ground travel Knives cut upward, directing the cut material safely over the top of the rotor into the all metal, high capacity hopper A standard hydraulic dump kit makes complete dumping of clippings and debris quick and easy

If desired, A QUICK FLIP DEFLECTOR PANEL controlled from the tractor seat allows the operator to change from Pick-Up to Ground Discharge Ground discharge is smooth, even, and safely behind the mower



THE HAMMER ACTION of M-C's overlapping knives and powerful vacuum paddles will lift and sweep leaves, downed material, twigs and debris the full width of the machine And an adjustable, full width anti-scalp gauge roller and front caster wheels keep the machine at uniform operating height as it moves over the ground

EVERLAST II EVERLAST II EVERLAST II

Metal Roofs Aren't Created Equal

EVERLAST II IS BETTER:

- it is galvanized heavier, like old times.
- it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
- is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
- won't scratch as easy, paint is harder.
- won't bend or buckle as easy, stronger design.
- laps are tighter, and virtually invisible.
- nail/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head.
- zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint.
- still priced about the same or less.

EVERLAST II
is excellent for houses and barns.
DOUBLE DIPPED GALVANIZED
is proven best for animals.
STANDING SEAM
is ideal for houses.

EVERLAST II EVERLAST II EVERLAST II

Everlast is stronger.

Everlast makes metal roofs and sides that are substantially stronger than it's competition. Everlast II does not buckle as easy during erection, less popping and buckling while walking on it. Higher wind and snow loads. More attractive.

Attention: Swine and Poultry Producers
Announcing:
Crude Soy Oil Now Available
With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations.

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:
- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets.
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds.
- Can be used for dust control purposes.
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems.

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:
- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat.
- Vegetable based product.
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat.
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills.
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs.

Other Soy Products Available:
- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil.

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program
- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40.
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

RWDCA Convention Was A Dutch Country Treat

BLUE BALL (Lancaster Co.) — Hosted by the Mason-Dixon Red and White Dairy Cattle Association (RWDCA), the National RWDCA conducted its annual membership meeting and awards banquet recently in Blue Ball.

Ed Peck, Wisconsin, and Rob Morrill, New Hampshire, were re-elected to three year terms as directors. Mary Etta Lenkaitis, Illinois, was elected as a new director. Upon the board's acceptance of Kathy Cook's resignation from the board, Jake Skinner, Pennsylvania, was appointed to fill the remaining two years of Cook's term.

Each year, the RWDCA presents the Don Albrecht Memorial Scholarship. This year's scholarship winner was Andrew Lenkaitis, Illinois. Lenkaitis is currently attending the University of Illinois, majoring in agricultural engineering. He has been breeding and showing registered Red and White cattle since he was nine years old and has aspirations of working as an engineer within the dairy industry, as well as owning and developing his own dairy herd.

The Don Albrecht Distinguished Service Award was presented to Dave and Merry Rama of The Cattle Exchange. The Ramas were praised for their long-standing support and promotion of registered Red and White cattle through sales that have helped not only establish superior genetics for the breed, but also increase the demand for the breed around the world.

T. Edwin Johnson was honored with the Larry Moore Master Breeder Award. Johnson has established the Hickorymea herd with tenacious dedication to the improvement of the Red and White breed and the propagation of the polled gene. Johnson has successfully placed numerous young sires in A.I. studs around the globe, predominantly descendants of Hickorymea Aero Tena*RC, an 88-point Aerostar daughter who transmitted the recessive hornless gene.

The 2003 J.P. Ostrander Young Breeder Award went to Scott and Beth Wilson of Ontario, Canada, in honor of their tremendous success in developing several of the most prominent Red and White cow families in the world. Known best for the breeding and development of Emlane Enhancer Maud-Red, an EX-3* Canadian brood cow and show winner, the Wilson's have dedicated their life and family to the advancement of the Red and White breed in Canada. Scott and Beth recently coordinated and founded the Canadian Red and White Holstein Club, allowing other Canadian breeders to join in camaraderie and breed improvement.

The 34th International Red and White Sale took place Sat., Aug. 2, at the Ben K. Stoltzfus Farm in Intercourse. The sale was managed by Dave and Merry Rama of The Cattle Exchange. The sale averaged $2,287.42 on 118 sale lots — just shy of last year's sale average which was the second-highest average ever in the history of the sale.

Topping the sale at $6,500 was Ridle-Side Roolet-Red-ET. She was consigned by breeder Gregory Schantz of Lowville, N.Y., and was the first daughter of the popular Rubens Roo cow to sell. She sold to a partnership of Schantz and Dave Rama.

The second high-seller, at $6,100, was first choice Ja-Bob Jordan-Red due in September, from Glen-Toctin Win April-ET*RC, an 86-point Winchester daughter with four sons contracted for A.I. This choice was consigned by Glen-Toctin Farm in Jefferson, Md., and was purchased by Luke Coblentz of Flemingsburg, Ky.

keenan SYSTEM

Better Farming - Better Feed

WANT TO REDUCE COW SORTING IN A SINGLE FEEDING

Start using the Keenan System on your farm.

The Keenan System combines on-farm TMR guidance built around the mixer wagon's unique tumbling action to precisely cut and mix hay, straw or baleage to the proper length (2"-4") – without destroying ingredients. It produces and even, fluffy ration that preserves the feed structure, discouraging sorting and optimizing rumen function for healthier cows. Healthier cows are productive cows. Productive cows are profitable cows.

Manure Management Guide

ITHACA, N.Y. — When considering a new or improved dairy manure management system, it is important to predict the costs, risks, savings, and operating changes that may occur. Because there are many options, careful and objective planning is a key to success. Guideline for Dairy Manure Management from Barn to Storage, NRAES-108, concisely reviews information essential to the planning process for dairy farmers and their advisers.

The 36-page guideline covers the following topics: planning the development or improvement of a manure handling system, getting technical information and assistance and meeting regulations; manure characteristics and production; alternatives for manure management; options for transferring manure from barn to storage; and manure storage types and storage management. Fourteen illustrations and 14 tables are included.

Guidelines for Dairy Manure Management from Barn to Storage, NRAES-108, is available for $8 per copy (plus shipping and handling) from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, PO Box 4557, Ithaca, NY 14852-4557. Shipping and handling for one copy is $4.25 within the continental U.S. New York residents, add 8.25 percent sales tax (calculated on both the cost of the publication and the shipping and handling charges). If ordering more than one copy or if ordering from outside the U.S., please contact NRAES for shipping rates and possible quantity discounts.

Peck Joins Dairy Strategies

MADISON, Wis. — Edward Peck has joined Dairy Strategies, LLC as a senior consultant, focusing on the Agribusiness Strategies and Services area of the firm's business.

In this position, Peck will focus on expanding the firm's offering of strategic marketing counsel, as well as plan development and implementation for agribusiness clients within the livestock industry — specifically the dairy marketplace. In addition to leading the firm's agribusiness services of strategic plan development, planning facilitation, brand positioning and key-message counsel, Peck also will serve as Dairy Strategies' marketing director, helping to increase the company's exposure and image in the marketplace.

Peck also has been named executive director of STRIDE (Systems Targeting Resource Integration for Dairy Excellence), an industry-wide initiative created to address consumers' demands. Now in its second year of activity, Dairy Strategies is the founder of STRIDE and is a charter member, serving as the hosting administrative organization of his dairy industry initiative.

Peck was director of account planning for Charleston/Orwig, a marketing communications firm in Hartland, Wis., which he joined through the merging with Filament Marketing, a business Peck himself founded. Prior to that, Peck was an account manager at Colle & McVoy in Minneapolis, director of communications for ABS Global, DeForest, Wis., and was an advertising sales representative for Hoard's Dairyman magazine.

A native of Marshall, Wis., Peck is president of the national Red and White Dairy Cattle Association, Crystal Spring, and a former president of the Wisconsin Association of FFA. A 1990 graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Peck holds degrees in agriculture journalism, dairy science, and a minor in business.

Heindel Announces New Management Team

BROGUE (York Co.) — H.E. Heindel and Sons has announced a new management team to oversee all farm operations. The three-person team was formed because of the change of focus of General Manager Jeffrey L. Heindel from the day-to-day farm activities to finances and planning for the farm and The Brown Cow Country Market.

New management team members are Andy Stein, Andy Peterson and Ronnie Stein. Andy Stein joined the company in April 2003 and will oversee the dairy and robotic milking systems. Andy Peterson has worked at Heindel since 1994 and will be responsible for managing the beef and grain milling operations. Ronnie Stein recently rejoined the company and will oversee the crops division and the overall workforce.

Red And White Bull Makes Top 10 In Holstein List

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — The new Red and White Type-Production Index (TPI)leader, who also debuts as number 5 for TPI in the Holstein breed, leads a group of seven graduates into active A.I. service at Select Sires.

Four of these new sires appear on the Top-100 TPI list, with all transmitting a balance of production and type as they join North America's leading active A.I. lineup.

"While each one of these graduates is impressive in his own right, three also are brothers to some of the breed's most-popular proven sires (including O-Bee Manfred Justice, Regancrest Elton Durham, and Sikkema-Star-W Hi Metro)," said Rick VerBeek, sire analyst, Select Sires.

While debuting as the top Red and White sire for Type-Production TPI, Zee-Cal Persia-Red also earned a place among the top 10 Holsteins for TPI.

PDMP Members Learn How To Develop Better Relationships

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — More than 100 producers and agribusiness representatives from across the state learned tips on how to do a better job presenting the true picture of agriculture to the public and lawmakers at the recent membership meeting conducted by the Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania.

The day-long event, titled "Neighbors, Regulations, and Political Awareness," was conducted at Mercer Vu Farms, Inc., in Mercersburg. Members and guests had the opportunity to hear, first-hand, from farm operators Ron, Judy, Rick, and Rod Hissong about their successful efforts to raise political and community awareness as they doubled their herd and improved facilities on their 950-cow operation, located within the town limits.

Rick and Rod Hissong discussed the pro-active steps they took to inform the public about their proposed expansion, which began in 2001. "We had to work around community misconceptions about large farms and thought the best way to educate the public would be to create a website," explained Rod Hissong. As the expansion was under way, the site detailed the history of the family-owned farm, facts about the project, and nutrient control plans. Today, the site (www.mercervufarms.com) shows the completed expansion and the economic impact the farm has on the local economy.

"The Website helped control rumors and has been an easy and effective way to reach the public," said Hissong. "It shows them that a farm is just like any other business."

Amy Van Blarcom-Lackey with PennAg Industries Association and Pat Wood of the public relations firm of William J. Green and Associates also shared how producers and agribusiness can raise awareness about agriculture through better public relations.

In her talk, titled "Political Process: Access to Power," Van Blarcom-Lackey warned that legislation aimed at curtailing the swine industry is now targeting the dairy industry. Currently, she noted approximately 42 townships in Pennsylvania have or are considering ordinances to stop expansion of modern agriculture facilities. "Our industry must show officials this is an economic issue, not just an environmental one," she explained.

She urged members to take steps to educate the public and their leaders about current issues. "Today, fewer people are connected to agriculture and this decline means there are fewer voices to speak for agriculture. I encourage you to speak to officials and to be more active in professional groups like the PDMP."

Pat Wood outlined steps that individuals can take to improve media relations in her talk, "Creating Positive Ag Media." "Agriculture needs to be more aggressive in presenting a positive image to the public, via the media," said Wood.

During the business session of the meeting, PDMP members learned that:

• Mercer Vu Farms, Inc., has been named the recipient of the 2003 Pacesetter Award sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders. The award recognizes those who work to build a positive image of the dairy industry. Alan Bair and Chuck Cruickshank of Dairy Stakeholders presented the Hissong family with a commemorative clock in recognition of the honor.

• The PDMP corn silage research trials have yielded plots of corn silage hybrid across the state. Andy Young of Red Knob Farms reported that results will be posted on the PDMP website in November. Only PDMP members have access to this research database.

• Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders has Business Planning Assistance Program (BPAP) grants of up to $1,500 available to dairy producers to help pay the professional costs associated with developing a dairy farm business plan. For more information, call (717) 948-6609.

• Penn State will host the North American Collegiate Dairy Challenge in 2004 and 2005. Dr. Larry Muller of Penn State reported that student teams from more than 30 universities are expected to attend. More details can be found at www.dairychallenge.org

• AgChoice Farm Credit will host a bus trip to the World Dairy Expo Oct. 1-4. AgChoice Farm Credit was the exclusive sponsor of the PDMP membership meeting.

The day concluded with a tour of the Mercer Vu Farms new facilities. Members and guests explored the farm's nutrient management facilities, computerized calf barn, and automated double 20 herringbone milking parlor.

Dairy Leaders To Be Honored At World Dairy Expo

MADISON, Wis. — Passion, risk taking and an eye on the bottom line are what define top businesses in any industry. Those characteristics also define the leaders who steer an industry when the waters of a volatile economy threaten. Four such leaders are piloting the dairy industry during a torrent of high energy prices and low profits. For their efforts, World Dairy Expo will honor these dairy industry leaders during the event, Tuesday, Sept. 30 to Saturday, Oct. 4 at the Alliant Energy Center in Madison, Wis.

The 2003 World Dairy Expo Award recipients are:

- Dairy Woman of the Year — Linda Hodorff, Eden, Wis.;
- Industry Person of the Year — Calvin Covington, Ocala, Fla.;
- International Person of the Year — Peter Padfield, Epping, Essex, United Kingdom; and
- Dairyman of the Year — James P. "Tom" Camerlo, Jr., Florence, Colo.

"Successful businessmen and women know that challenges facing an industry are merely opportunities for doing things better," said Tom McKittrick, World Dairy Expo general manager. "Those that initiate change and lead in uncertain times inspire us and guarantee a bright future for the dairy industry. These four leaders have navigated the rough economy and are determined to keep their farms and organizations on the path to profitability."

A special presentation honoring these award winners along with the show's three-star sponsors will be during World Dairy Expo at the 2003 Dinner with the Stars. The banquet, Tuesday night in past years, has been moved to Wednesday night to accommodate the new Tuesday through Saturday show schedule. For more information on the dinner or the show, contact World Dairy Expo at (608) 224-6455 or go online at www.worlddairyexpo for the latest show details.

GAP (Lancaster Co.) — Roman Stoltzfoos has received a real education since he switched to grass-based dairying 10 years ago and became certified organic two years later.

"It's been a wild ride and a great learning experience," said the grazier from Gap.

Stoltzfoos grew up on his parent's 200-acre dairy, Spring Wood Farm, which he now owns. Although his father Sam was not a grazier, he was an innovative farmer and "very much a conservationist," Roman said.

Roman and his wife Lucy live and work on the farm. They have 11 children, ranging from 6 months to 23 years of age.

Farm Plan A Service of FPC Financial

Consider Hosting An International Dairy Trainee

Richard Stup
Human Resource Specialist
Penn State Dairy Alliance

"Trainees want to come to learn about American dairy methods," said Jill Stahl Tyler, administrator of the International Dairy Farm Training Program, and president of the Global Cow. "The U.S. dairy farmers who work with trainees appreciate their genuine interest and their good questions."

The trainees "learn by doing," which means that they are involved in all areas of the dairy operation, from milking to feeding calves to driving tractors to pulling calves to mixing rations.

Some trainees are actually trained veterinarians in their country, and come to the U.S. to learn how to put into practice all that they've read about. Others are from dairy farms or involved in related industries back home.

"They know that the U.S. has one of the highest production averages in the world," said Stahl Tyler. "They know that we are using technology to make better decisions to increase productivity. Plus, living in the U.S. is great practice for English, which is typically very important to the trainee back home."

Trainees are generally committed to a one-year stay at one farm, which gives host farms time to train and appreciate their trainees' knowledge gain. Hosts provide payment of $600 per month, housing, food or food allowance, health insurance (provided through the program) and reasonable access to transportation from their host farms.

For more information, contact Stahl Tyler by toll-free phone at (866) 267-2879, fax (802) 257-1693, or e-mail jill@globalcow.com. The Website also has complete information: http:/www.globalcow.com.

Proposals Sought For Jersey Research

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Jersey Cattle Association (AJCA) Research Foundation has issued a request for research proposals to be funded in 2004 addressing significant problems to the Jersey breed and Jersey milk producers.

The foundation sponsors annual competitive research grants providing partial or full funding. Awards have averaged $4,800 per project from 1994 through 2003. More than $570,000 has been awarded for more than 130 investigations since 1988.

Priorities for research funding are:

- Nutrition of high-producing Jerseys (particularly practical feeding methods to maximize production of valuable milk components);
- Factors affecting yield of products manufactured from Jersey milk;
- Factors affecting net income, longevity, and lifetime profit;
- Breeding plans to optimize genetic gain while maintaining genetic diversity;
- Biological and economic efficiencies of Jerseys; and
- Factors affecting management of Jersey calves.

The application deadline is Dec. 1. The AJCA Research Advisory Committee will evaluate the proposals, then forward its recommendations to the AJCA board of directors, which will award funds at its meeting in March 2004.

Evaluative criteria for submissions are merit (potential to advance practical knowledge, creative approach to the problem); competence (high probability of successful completion within the proposed time frame); and relevance (problem derived from one of the areas of research priority).

The announcement for research proposals is posted at http://www.usjersey.com/Programs/Researchprogram.html. For more information, contact Carl W. Wolfe, director of research and genetic program development, at the American Jersey Cattle Association, 6486 E. Main St., Reynoldsburg, OH 43068-2362.

Making The Leap To Organic Dairy Production

Kathie Arnold
Twin Oaks Dairy, LLC
Truxton, N.Y.

Transitioning to organic dairy production will require many changes for most farms — some major and others minor — and can involve a lengthy time period. The biggest change often required, however, is the change required in the mind of the farmer.

One may have to go from a mindset of "I need hormones to be sure my cows get bred" and "how can I control weeds in my corn without herbicides?" and "I can't possibly take care of my herd without antibiotics" — to a mindset open to new, and sometimes old, information, skills, knowledge, paradigms, standards, etc.

It may require a change from "I'm not going to have someone else dictate how I have to farm" to "I'm willing to accept and do whatever is required to produce this product to meet the needs of our customers." It may require a shift from a desire for quick fixes out of a bottle or spray truck or from a view that organic standards are burdensome regulations to an understanding that the extra challenges and requirements of organic production are what allow for a premium price for certified organic products.

For some people, this transition can take years, for others only some fine tuning of their current thought processes. Many farmers will never be able to make the shift or even have any desire to try.

Other areas of change and new management tasks include animal husbandry, likely major health care changes, land and crop management, record-keeping, sourcing new and different inputs, the certification process, alternative marketing, economics, and developing a new or enlarged support network.

Land Transition

All farmland to be certified, including pasture and cropland, must be managed organically for a minimum 36-month period before it can qualify for organic certification. That means that no herbicides, insecticides, fungicides, commercial fertilizers, treated seed, or other prohibited substances can be used during that time period. Adequate records need to be kept to verify the land management.

There are numerous resources available to help with organic crop management, from magazines to handbooks. In New York, there are organic crop field days events and monthly get-togethers with presentations on organic crop production. Most states with a growing population of organic farms have similar learning opportunities available.

Animal Husbandry and Management

Organic dairy production requires a number of animal husbandry and management practices that may require extensive change for conventional dairy farms. The cost, challenge, and time required for transition in animal husbandry will vary depending upon the current type of management; an intensive grazing farm will have fewer changes to make than a total confinement operation.

Animal health can be another challenging transition depending upon the farm. No antibiotics, hormones, or most other conventional pharmaceuticals can be used except in case of emergency, which will then require the removal of the treated animal from the herd. Standards now require one year of organic health care before a herd can be certified plus several other practices in place:

Grazing and outdoor access is required for all animals over six months of age. Calves must be fed organic milk; conventional milk replacer is allowed only in an emergency and then must be bST-free. Tails cannot be docked.

Organic feed must be fed. During the transition year, 80 percent organic and 20 percent conventional feeds can be fed for the first nine months of transition, and then the ration must be 100 percent organic for the last three months and thereafter. Feed supplements and additives must pass organic standard muster.

The number one tenet of organic herd health management is to provide an environment that supports, fosters, and engenders healthy animals that rarely need treatment.

In my mind, the cornerstone to providing this positive environment is plenty of high quality pasture. Pasture provides many, many positive health benefits - the exercise it provides gives cows good body condition in terms of physical strength and endurance; the green grass, legumes, and other pasture plants provide high levels of Vitamin E which is essential for healthy immune systems — plus supplying many other high quality nutrients, vitamins, and minerals. Rotationally grazed pastures provide exposure to lots of sunshine and fresh air, which is not only healthy for animals but helps sanitize the environment that the cows are in; the walking involved in the use of pastures provides for natural hooftrimming. Most years, we are able to provide 200 days of grazing for our milking herd and often a month more than that for our dry cows and many of the heifers.

During winter, the pasture environment can't be duplicated, but the same basic tenets apply — to keep the cows in a low stress environment with lots of fresh air, daily exercise, and high quality food — supplementing their diet with immune system boosters such as kelp, Vitamin E, and selenium.

When an animal does get sick and needs treatment, options available include homeopathy, herbal/plant-based products, and immune system supports such as vitamins and colostrum whey products.

Management of mastitis without the use of antibiotics again rests on ensuring that animals have a strong, healthy immune system and good sanitation. Frequent monitoring of individual cow somatic cell counts and the culturing of individual cows to identify both problem cows and problem organisms are two useful tools for organic farmers.

Organic farmers need to substitute tight management in place of the use of antibiotics. I know it is possible, for we have gone from a somatic cell count of around 400,000 when we started organic production to averaging around 200,000 four years later.

Marketing

A most basic piece of information that a farm should secure near the start of the transition period is to ensure that once certified, they will have a market for their milk.

Some farms have started on-farm processing or have found an alternative market, but these options are not easily or readily available. There are some geographic areas that are currently too far from the organic milk pick-up routes and there just is no market for the milk from farms in such areas.

Since it is costly to go through organic transition, it is important to have assurance, in writing if possible, that the intended milk buyer will indeed pick up your milk once transitioned. Given the unpredictibility of the growth of the organic dairy market, it often is hard for the buyer to know for sure when additional milk is needed. They may not be able to give a letter of intent until it is time to start the last 90 day, 100-percent organic feeding phase.

Farmers need to find, or already have, professional consultants (i.e. veterinarian, nutritionist, etc.) who can work within the confines of the organic standards. As with anything new, it is also helpful to be able to develop a network of other farmers, advisers, etc. to help with the transition to organic management and refinement once certified. In my area, we have an organic dairy farm discussion group facilitated by Cornell Cooperative Extension. I also interact with an informal network as well. The Northeast Organic Dairy Producers Alliance (NODPA) exists and works to help network organic dairy farmers in the northeast and beyond. This is facilitated through a quarterly newsletter, email discussions, a web page, and an annual field day/conference. Many other organizations in the Northeast sponsor farm tours, workshops, and conferences designed to meet the needs of organic farmers.

Each farmer considering organic must decide whether or not this is a fit for their farm, family, and for them personally. One must consider the economics, the extra management involved — including the extensive paperwork — the new challenges it will bring and the old ones it will leave behind, and whether or not the basic philosophy is a fit with one's personal attitudes, beliefs, habits, and mindset.

To order an organic dairy resource and contact list from Cornell University please, call Faye Butts at (607) 254-7412 or email to fsb1@cornell.edu.

The cost is $12 to cover printing and postage.

Watch Out For Mold, Mycotoxin Problems In Feed

A. Jud Heinrichs
Dairy and Animal Science Extension
Penn State

This year's growing conditions in Pennsylvania are setting us up for the right conditions to find increased mold and mycotoxins in home grown feeds this year.

Cool wet growing seasons that delay the harvest of crops, especially corn, will set up the right conditions for mold and mycotoxin formation on crops while in the field. Fusarium toxins occur more often with cool wet growing conditions, while hot humid conditions favor the formation of aflatoxins in feeds and forages.

Molds in general will increase as we wait for forage crops such as corn to dry down as a result of wet field conditions.

Molds will not always contain dangerous compounds, however they most often result in reduced feed intake and reduced digestibility of feeds and forages, which result in reduced production. The problems can be minimized if we reduce the amount of total molds that are fed in a single ration.

While we cannot change the weather, be aware of the strong potential for problems, look for molds and mold spores, do some testing if you suspect problems, and consider ration changes where possible. You may consider using mold inhibitors and mycotoxin binding compounds for your feeds.

Also watch for feed bunk heating with this year's forages. High levels of mold spores may result in TMRs that heat fast even in cold weather. This may require a mold inhibitor or change in feeding management to overcome this problem.

How Much Water Does Your Dairy Operation Use?

Virginia Ishler, Alyssa Dodd, and Bryan Swistock
Penn State Extension
Dairy Alliance, Ag Economics and Rural Sociology,
And School of Forest Resources

Over the next couple of months, producers will read or hear a lot about agricultural water use. The reason: implementation of Act 220, The Water Resources Planning Act. This legislation was passed late in 2002 to address concerns related to recurring droughts, increased water use disputes, and an outdated State Water Plan.

Beginning this month, all livestock producers will receive pre-registration materials in the mail to determine who needs to register their water usage. By March 16, 2004, everyone who withdraws or uses more than 10,000 gallons per day, including agricultural operations, are required to register each source of water and report water use. There are no fees associated with registering or reporting. Agricultural operations using less than 10,000 gallons per day may voluntarily register water use.

In November, a more detailed registration form will be sent to those producers that are required to, or voluntarily choose to, register. The registration form will ask for water usage for 2003 if such record of usage is available or if it can be estimated. Subsequent to this one-time registration, water usage will be reported on an annual basis. Usage may be determined by metering, calculation or estimation. What this means to producers is that they will need to measure or estimate water use from EACH of their water sources and keep a monthly report. It is not uncommon for livestock operations to have more than one water source, i.e., two wells and a spring.

There are several ways dairy producers can determine the amount of water used on a daily basis. They include, but are not limited to water meters, equations to calculate water intake of lactating cows, and reference sources to estimate water usage of calves, heifers, and dry cows, and to estimate water usage of equipment and procedures on the dairy. Check with your local dairy extension agent for resources.

The primary goal of Act 220 is to provide accurate information to sustain water resource usage for Pennsylvania. The plan will help to answer three basic questions: 1) How much water does Pennsylvania have? 2) How much water does Pennsylvania use? 3) How much water will Pennsylvania need in the future? As this legislation moves forward, Cooperative Extension will provide resources to assist producers in determining water usage.

Organic Dairyman Profits From Doing What He Believes

The Stoltzfooses milk about 135 cows on a semi-seasonal basis. A lot of the cows are Holstein/Jersey crossbreeds. Most of them calve in the spring, but the herd is never dry all at once, as in a fully seasonal operation.

Numbers such as rolling herd average and individual cow production are not the most important consideration to Stoltzfoos. He focuses instead on the profit he reaps from each acre of grassland. On Spring Wood Farm, Stoltzfoos said that figure is higher than it ever was before he switched to grazing.

Stoltzfoos's learning curve has offered multiple challenges and benefits.

"I've seen years that have been more profitable than I ever expected," he said of the past decade. "I've also seen difficult years." While the organic milk price has been fairly constant, the weather was less so.

Both droughty seasons and unusually wet ones like this year have created challenges for the grazier, but he remains committed to grass-based farming.

The entire farm is planted in a mix of grasses and clovers, with a bit of alfalfa in some of the fields. Orchardgrass is the "staple" forage, followed by white and red clovers, ryegrass, fescues, and other varieties of grass. Hay on the farm is custom-harvested in large square bales, wrapped round bales, or as haylage, depending on the weather.

To help meet energy demands, the cows are supplemented year-round with a total mixed ration of three parts hay, six parts corn, and four parts of spelt. In wintertime, hay is the main feed source.

Josh Stolzfoos feeds new chicks. Pastured poultry is one way the Stoltzfoos farm has diversified.

Crossbreeding is evident in the Stoltzfoos herd. The cows pass through the fly blocker on the way to being milked.

Composting plays a major part in soil fertility on Spring Wood Farm. Here Clifford Stoltzfus aerates the row.

According to Stoltzfoos, he switched to grazing for two big reasons: to reduce cow health problems and produce high quality milk.

"It's better for the cow and better for the milk supply," he said. Metabolic disorders, especially ketosis and milk fever, have all but disappeared since he put the cows out on grass and cut back on grain feeding, he said.

The increasingly known benefits of grassfed animal products for human health have helped create a market for Stoltzfoos's milk. They've also helped Lucy and him know that their own children are getting good food.

"We have children and we want them to be healthy," he said. "We have a product that people can truly benefit from."

He and other graziers aren't the only people who have that viewpoint, according to Stoltzfoos.

Organic Dairyman Profits From Doing What He Believes

"The public wants milk that's made on grass," he said.

Stoltzfoos, a member of Lancaster Organic Farmer's Cooperative, said that a cheesemaker recently contacted the co-op saying he wanted milk from cows that are fed no grain at all, only grass. He was especially interested in conjugated linoleic acid (CLA) content of the milk. Studies have shown that CLA content is significantly higher in grassfed animal products and has benefits to human health, including cancer-fighting properties.

Spring Wood Farm was certified by Pennsylvania Certified Organic in 1995. According to Stoltzfoos, going organic was a natural step after the switch to grazing.

"With grass, you don't need chemicals (pesticides and herbicides)," he said.

The biggest challenge in organic grass production is supplying enough nitrogen without a commercial product. Using compost made mostly from manure on the farm, Stoltzfoos can provide a lot of the grass's nitrogen needs in a stable form. He supplements with manure from the farm's organic turkey operation. Good clover populations in the pastures also help supply nitrogen to the grasses.

According to Stoltzfoos, grazing is a better way to promote nitrogen utilization by plants than row-cropping systems.

"Grazing encourages the nitrogen cycle to work better," he said. "Intensive cropping puts a net drain on the soil, even if you're organic." The goal is to spread two tons of compost per acre each year. When he falls behind, the pastures show it, Stoltzfoos said. Last year, for example, he was busy irrigating paddocks and didn't get all the compost spread. He suspects that was at least part of the reason for a dip in milk production this spring.

Controlling flies and internal parasites without chemicals is a challenge in organic cow care, Stoltzfoos said. He uses diatomaceous earth in the feed to help control parasites, but admits that it is ineffective against coccidia organisms. Animals under 6 or 7 months are especially susceptible.

"We're not immune to losing one or two," he said. Keeping energy levels high in the feed ration is another precaution against the weakening effects of parasites.

For fly control, an apparatus with hanging pieces of material sweeps flies off the backs and sides of cows when they come in for milking. The blue lights of an attached "bug-zapper" then attract a number of the flies to their electrocution.

(Turn to Page 29)

Organic Dairyman Profits

Caleb Stoltzfoos, 9, pointed out one of the drawbacks of the fly catcher.

"If it would get the flies from under the cow it would be better," he said. "That's where they are."

One of Caleb's chores, along with his brother Joshua, 11, and his dad, is to milk the cows in the New Zealand 22-unit swing-style parlor.

According to Roman, it takes the three of them 45 minutes to an hour to milk the herd of 135 cows. Milking is done twice a day and is a "pleasant" experience, he said.

Labor efficiency was one of the things that impressed Stoltzfoos from a 1997 trip he took to New Zealand dairy farms. There, he noticed that "nobody spent more than an hour milking," even in large operations.

The Stoltzfooses began milking in their new parlor early in 2000. Prior to that, the herd was milked in a stall-barn.

Another lesson Stoltzfoos learned from New Zealand is to focus on production per acre rather that per cow, and to keep costs low.

"Granted, this is not New Zealand," Stoltzfoos said. "But there's much that's applicable. It's not about herd average. It's all about profit."

The Lancaster Organic Farmer's Cooperative has 18 farmer members that provide milk for the Natural By Nature brand available in some stores in the area. The co-op also makes cheese, some of which is sold at Miller's Health Food Store in Leola.

The organic milk price has been steady at about $20 or more per hundredweight.

One challenge to marketing organic milk is the seasonal limitation. Since grass is a requirement for certified organic milk, there tends to be a much larger milk supply in the spring and summer and a deficit in the winter.

Stoltzfoos is bothered by a trend toward pasteurization at higher temperatures in order to provide ESL (extended shelf life) milk for consumers. Because organic milk is a relatively low-volume product in stores, some organic processors have been offering the ESL products to increase the shelf life of milk up to six months. Although Natural By Nature doesn't sell ESL milk, Stoltzfoos worries the market may increasingly demand it.

For health's sake, he believes raw milk from grassfed cows is the best. He sells some off the farm to neighbors and other individuals, but mourns the time when buying products directly from the farmer was normal.

farmers was when they were disconnected from the consumer," he said.

According to Stoltzfoos, it's a myth that confinement dairies are needed to produce enough milk to meet demand.

"Can we supply the milk we need with grass? Absolutely," he said. "We (on Spring Wood Farm) are producing more milk per acre than we ever did before."

Even so, Stoltzfoos always tries to do it better.

"I'm a grazier. That's what I enjoy doing. But there's always room to grow and learn."

Stoltzfoos recommends farmers "proceed cautiously" when getting into grazing and learn what works best for them.

"Adapt ideas to your farm," he said. "No one can copy me or anybody else."

Spring Wood Farm was one of 16 Pennsylvania farms that received a Dairy of Distinction award this year for presenting a positive image of the dairy industry.

Located along Gap Road southeast of the town of Gap, the well-kept farm and its 19th-century stone farmhouse are the scene for plenty of action. The children of working age have their own chores to do. The farm includes an organic free-range turkey operation, free-range chickens for meat and eggs, and Tamworth pigs fed on buttermilk and kitchen waste.

The children are Dwight, 23; Hilda, 21; Delmar, 17; Charlene, 15; Clifford, 13; Joshua, 11; Caleb, 9; Althea, 7; Raphael, 5; Hadassah, 2; and Heather, 6 months. Dwight and Hilda work away pretty much fulltime.

Professional Dairy Heifers Growers Conference Oct. 28-29

BATAVIA, N.Y. — A dynamic program has been planned for the 2003 Northeast Regional Conference of the Professional Dairy Heifer Growers Association (PDHGA) Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 28-29 here at the Holiday Inn.

Heifer growers, dairy producers raising their own replacements, and allied industry representatives will benefit from this opportunity to convene in scenic western New York to learn the latest, share ideas, tour farms, and develop their programs.

Raising dairy replacements is a key management area on any dairy farm, and professional growers are in demand. Regional conferences are just one way PDHGA provides important resources, education, professional development and motivation — dedicated to helping growers maintain and increase profitability and add value to the heifers they raise. PDHGA conferences, newsletter, website and database also provide a vital communication network.

"The conference experience definitely helped me be more professional and more accountable to the customers I'm growing for," said Lynn Neer of Greenwood Farm in Belleville. Neer has been custom-raising dairy replacement heifers for four and a half years, and he recently became a member of the PDHGA after attending his first conference.

"I was impressed with how professional and organized the event was," Neer explains. "The trade show was excellent, and I was able to bring back information about a new technology to help one of my customers. It was very beneficial for me to visit with veterinarians and other growers from different areas, and the farm tours were a great way to see how others do it. You get a lot of good ideas."

This year, the conference focus is reproduction, and Tuesday will be the day to hear from the experts. Speakers will cover timely information on subjects ranging from breeding programs, economics and handling facilities, to post-fresh results of intensified feeding and BVD/Lepto impact and protocols. The day will conclude with the ever-popular producer panel and a summary of best management practices. The schedule offers plenty of time to interact with other growers, speakers and trade show vendors.

An optional dinner and evening program are also planned for Tuesday, Oct. 28 at the Batavia Holiday Inn, with Dr. Roger Saltman, Pfizer, as the keynote speaker on the topic of Process Management.

Farm tours have been planned for Wednesday, Oct. 29. Conference-goers will visit three large dairy heifer operations — Alan Hainesworth's Calf Facility in Mt. Morris, which raises 6,000 calves annually; Stokoe Farms in Avon, which is a renovated dairy farm handling 700 head post-weaned; and Heifer Haven Farms in Stanley, which is a custom-grower operation handling 1,750 post-weaned heifers.

For registration by Oct. 1, the cost is $50; after Oct. 1, $60. Walk-in registration will be $75. PDHGA members receive a $10 discount on registration prior to the conference ($40 by Oct. 1 and $50 after Oct. 1; no discount for walk-in registration). Cost for the optional dinner with speaker on Tuesday evening is $25. Wednesday's farm tours are $27.

Make checks payable to "Cornell Cooperative Extension" and mail with name, address and phone number, to: Northeast PDHGA Conference, Attn: Wendy Garrett, Cornell Cooperative Extension, 420 East Main Street, Batavia, N.Y. 14020.

For more information about the conference or to become a member of PDHGA, contact Steve Bechard, PDHGA Northeast Director, at (518) 846-8422 or (518) 846-7375. Or visit the Website at www.pdhga.org.

CIDR Estrus Synchronizer Approved For Lactating Cows

Michael O'Connor
Dairy and Animal Science Extension
Penn State

The Controlled Internal Drug Release (CIDR) device, which releases natural progesterone to synchronize estrus, was first approved in 2002 for use in dairy heifers and beef cattle. Use of the CIDR insert for the prescribed seven days in combination with an injection of prostaglandin (PG) on day 6 or 7 has been effective in synchronizing estrus in heifers. Recent data reported in the Journal of Dairy Science (June 2003) showed the concentrations of progesterone in milk due to the presence of the CIDR vaginal insert were significantly less than concentrations of progesterone in milk from pregnant cows. It was concluded that milk from cows administered a CIDR insert was safe for human consumption. For many years this system has been used in New Zealand for synchronizing estrus in lactating cows. In August, it was approved in the U.S. for lactating dairy cows.

During the last fifteen years or so, considerable research has been conducted on various applications of this reproductive management tool. One application is to integrate the CIDR into the Ovsynch program. Research has shown that inserting a CIDR on the first day of the Ovsynch program, removing it on day 7 when PG is administered, and continuing with the standard Ovsynch protocol improved conception rates compared to the standard Ovsynch program without use of a CIDR, especially in high producing cows that were anestrus.

Other systems using the CIDR are being tested.

Another application is to use the CIDR to increase post-breeding heat detection rate for open cows following a previous insemination. This concept is termed "resynch." Using this approach, recent research demonstrated that inserting a CIDR on day 14, plus or minus one day, post-insemination and removing it seven days later improved the heat detection rate compared to cows visually observed for estrus without use of a CIDR. More cows were observed in estrus two to five days after removal of the CIDR than control cows during a nine-day period of expected return heats.

To benefit from this system, heat detection must be frequent and routine. Thus labor can be focused on certain days to improve post breeding heat detection on a group of previously synchronized and inseminated cows so the interval to rebreeding is

Northeast Dairy Students To Take The Challenge

COBLESKILL, N.Y. — On Oct. 24 and 25, up to 80 of the Northeast's top dairy students will participate in the first Northeast Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge, hosted by the State University of New York.

Students invited to the event will be from such states as New York, Vermont, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and New Hampshire.

This innovative event, known as the Dairy Challenge, enables students to apply their life and academic knowledge to real-world dairy farming, while working as part of five-person preassigned student teams from colleges and universities throughout the Northeast.

Day one of the challenge will begin with each team receiving actual production, financial, nutrition, reproduction and management information about an assigned dairy operation. Each team will have the opportunity to tour the farm operation, complete a thorough analysis of the operation and meet with the farm's management team. Following the visit, team members will formulate their analysis and recommendations. On day two, students will present their evaluation and recommendations to a panel of industry judges.

This event also will serve as an opportunity for dairy producers and industry representatives to meet prospective young employees. To become a sponsor of the Northeast Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge, contact Sheila Marshman, Morrisville State College, (315) 684-6106, MarshmSA@MORRISVILLE.EDU; or Barry Putnam, Genex Cooperative, (800) 333-9007, Ext. 6120, bputnam@crinet.com.

Caution: do not use PG in this resynch program, as PG will induce embryonic death in the pregnant cows within this group.

Discuss these different strategies with your veterinarian and other members of your management team to determine if they can enhance the reproductive performance of the herd.

Since installing the fully automated milker last year, the Matthews family has been impressed with its labor-saving performance and the cows' ability to adapt to volunteer milking.

CHESTER SPRINGS (Chester Co.) — Travelers getting off the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Chester Springs are greeted by housing developments, strip malls, and traffic jams.

Nothing about it looks much like farming country.

But look closer. There's a thriving dairy farm about a mile up the road. And the people who own and operate it don't view their neighbors as a nuisance, they see them as customers.

That's how the Matthews family of Milky Way Farm has transitioned their dairy into the 21st century — they've adapted to the changes happening around them and are profiting from it.

In the past two and half years, the Matthews have taken two big steps. They built Chester Springs Creamery, a store on the farm for selling ice cream. And last year they installed a robotic milker.

Both moves were intended to keep the farm in operation for the younger generation and beyond.

Milky Way Farm

"We're very interested in perpetuating the farm," said Carolyn Matthews Eaglehouse, daughter of owners Sam and Melba Matthews.

The 103-acre farm was originally part of a William Penn land grant. According to Eaglehouse, it has been in the Matthews family about 100 years, and was owned by "extended family" since the 1800s.

Diversity, direct-marketing, and labor-saving technology are keys to success on today's version of the Matthews farm.

Most of the cropland is used to grow the traditional crops of corn and alfalfa to feed the cows. The family also raise pumpkins for a pick-your-own operation.

The milking herd of about 35 Holsteins is allowed to graze in spring and summer and receives no bST.

The cows are milked in the robotic milking unit, which Sam Matthews called "the best hired man we could find in this area."

Minus the presence of a human, the robotic milker automatically washes and milks, as well as treating teats with a sanitary dip. Each cow enters the robot voluntarily, drawn by a pelleted grain ration that is dispensed when she enters. The unit records milk production and milk quality data at each milking.

Matthews said one of the main reasons he decided to go with the robot was to cut back on labor demands so he can continue dairying as he eases into his later years.

"I'm 65 and I want to keep working," Matthew says. It's also about making the farm a friendly place for the next generation to make a living.

Sam and Melba's three children Carolyn (and her husband Lou and 2-year-old son Matthew), Tom, and Jane are closely involved in the farm and store — and the elder Matthewses want to keep it that way.

"I believe the robotic milker makes dairy farming more attractive for the next generation," Sam said.

He is pleased with the performance of the robot, noting that the cows adjusted to it without too much hassle.

"All the cows adapted well," he said. "About 80 percent figured it out within 10 days or less. The rest of them — 'tailenders' — took a month or more" (and eventually caught on).

High producing cows visit the robotic milker four or five times in a 24-hour period. The extra milkings have helped boost production 10-12 pounds a cow per day, according to Matthews.

He also noted that the frequent milkings have had a positive effect on cow behavior.

"The cows are docile, calmer, and more relaxed," he said.

Somatic cell counts have held steady since switching to the robot.

One of Matthews's biggest worries is what could happen to the computer workings of the robot in the event of a lightning strike. While many technical difficulties can be remedied by phone conversations with a technician in Carlisle, according to Matthews, an electrical storm could wreak more than normal havoc.

As far as cow care, Matthews said he can keep up more with health concerns than he could prior to having the robot.

"Actually, I know more about the cows than I did before," Matthews said. He continues to monitor the cows every day as he feeds hay, and depends on a daily robot-generated computer printout for udder health data.

Before deciding to purchase the robotic milker, the Matthews visited the Cumberland County farm of Gordon and Amy Holl, one of the first dairies in the state to operate one.

He came home from the Holls convinced that his own farm should have one.

Paul Berdell, robotic milker technician from Wisconsin and longtime friend of the Matthews family, said the FDA recently approved the new technology for general use in the U.S. The number of robotic milkers is slowly increasing in dairy states across the country. A single unit costs about $150,000 and can handle about 60 cows.

While most of the milk from Milky Way Farm is shipped to Land O' Lakes, about 5 percent is used to make the ice cream that is sold off the farm.

Chester Springs Creamery opened in May 2001 and employs about 20 part-time workers.

The store features ice cream flavors named after the Matthews's cows. Favorites are Duchesses' Chocolate Supreme, Bessie's Black Raspberry, Joy's Peanut Butter Fudge, Blossom's Peanut Butter Pecan, and Polly's Pumpkin Pie.

Other public-friendly features on Milky Way Farm include many field trips for school kids and a pick-your-own pumpkin operation, both of which help draw plenty of customers for the ice cream store.

Matthews said the family maintains a good relationship with the public, who sometimes even wants to buy things the farm doesn't have.

"Somebody asked, 'why not grow Christmas trees? We'd buy them from you.'" Matthews said.

But by that time of the season it's time to take some rest, according to Matthews.

"These people around us have more money than we ever dreamed of and they're happy to spend it on a real farm," he said.

Farmers Union Petitions FDA To Protect Definition Of Milk

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union dairy leaders recently delivered 3,398 petitions to the Food and Drug Administration urging the agency not to change the definition of milk.

The National Cheese Institute, Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., National Food Processors Association, and American Dairy Products Institute, recently filed petitions with the FDA requesting a revision of the definition of milk. The petitions request permission to use fluid ultra-filtered milk as an approved ingredient in standardized cheeses and other cheese products. Under FDA's current standard of identity regulations, fluid ultra-filtered milk is not an approved ingredient in more than 70 different cheeses.

National Farmers Union opposes allowing fluid ultra-filtered milk to be used as an ingredient in natural cheese and cheese products.

"Dairy farmers have worked to develop an identity of milk and dairy products as pure and wholesome in the eye of the American consumer," said NFU President Dave Frederickson. "Any change to the definition of milk would seriously compromise decades of work and investment by the nation's dairy farmers and quality cheese makers and would be a serious deception to our nation's consumers."

According to the March 6, 2001, General Accounting Office report on ultra-filtered milk, separation by filtration results in a highly concentrated ultra-filtered milk that is not nutritionally equivalent to fluid milk. The study cites that most of the vitamins, minerals, enzymes, and lactose are removed through the filtration process.

Frederickson urged dairy farmers and consumers to submit comments to the FDA on the proposed definition change through National Farmers Union's Web site, www.nfu.org.

Luttropp To Lead National Animal ID Program

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Jodi Luttropp has been named the coordinator for National Farm Animal Identification and Records (National FAIR). In this role, Luttrop will be responsible for the day-to-day operations of National FAIR, which continues to lead the initiative for national animal identification in this country, and will head the 10-member National FAIR team.

Luttropp joined the National FAIR team in April 2002, when she was named manager of dairy and identification programs, at Holstein Association USA, Inc.

A graduate of University of Wisconsin-Madison, Luttropp was reared on a Wisconsin dairy.

"Luttropp's experience in animal agriculture, combined with her broad understanding of the livestock industry in this country, makes her a natural fit to coordinate this effort," said John M. Meyer, CEO of Holstein Association USA. "She not only understands the technical aspects of the national animal identification program, she has the ability to relate with producers through practical, working knowledge gained on her family's dairy operation, and understands the value of National FAIR from a producer's perspective. "

Jodi Luttrop of Holstein Association USA is Farm Animal Identification and Records (FAIR) coordinator.

The National FAIR program is a producer-driven national identification database developed in 1999, with joint cooperation USDA's Animal Plant Inspection Service (APHIS) and Veterinary Services (VS).

Recognizing that an animal identification program needs to have a national scope in order to be effective, four pilot states were identified across the nation (Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, and California), and the effort has grown to include 42 states to date. National FAIR remains the only system existing today, with the abilities to electronically track livestock nation-wide in an uncontrolled environment from birth to the processing facility.

Since January 2002, involvement in the nationwide animal identification program has grown tremendously. There are about 6,000 farms using the National FAIR program, an increase of more than 500 percent. The National FAIR program is tracking animals from birth to slaughter at a total of 18 markets and processing facilities.

The National FAIR program starts at the farm when ear tags containing a radio frequency device marked with an individual number are placed in the animal's ear. Information on each animal is recorded in the National FAIR database, and the animal's location is recorded each time information is read from the tag, either on the farm, in livestock markets, or at processing facilities. To learn more about National FAIR, visit www.nationalfair.com or call (800) 952-5200, ext. 4062.

In 2000, the Dairyman's Club began selling pint-sized commemorative milk bottles to support Penn State Dairy Science student scholarships. In 2002, the Penn State Dairymen's Club Award for Freshmen Students was established. As a result of the popularity of the milk bottles and individual contributions, the club is halfway to funding the $10,000 endowment.

The Fifth Edition milk bottle will be unveiled at the Dairymen's Club Annual Meeting on Friday, Nov. 7 at Celebration Hall in State College. In addition, a five-year collectible set will be available for purchase. Look for more details as the event draws nearer.

"In my previous barn, I scraped two times a day, and I was tired of it, not to mention the danger to the cows if a cable snapped. I thought I would not be able to justify the additional cost until my builder suggested a design change which brought the cost down relatively close to the original design.

The biggest benefit to me is the labor savings. Two people can handle all the chores for our herd. I save money not only on labor but also on repairs.

The cows' hooves are healthier, and they show heat better because they are not afraid of slipping. During the five years with slats, I have not lost a single heifer from slipping. The cows stay much cleaner, even with my misting system for cooling them. The water has a place to escape."

"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"

"Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense. I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn. The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria."
